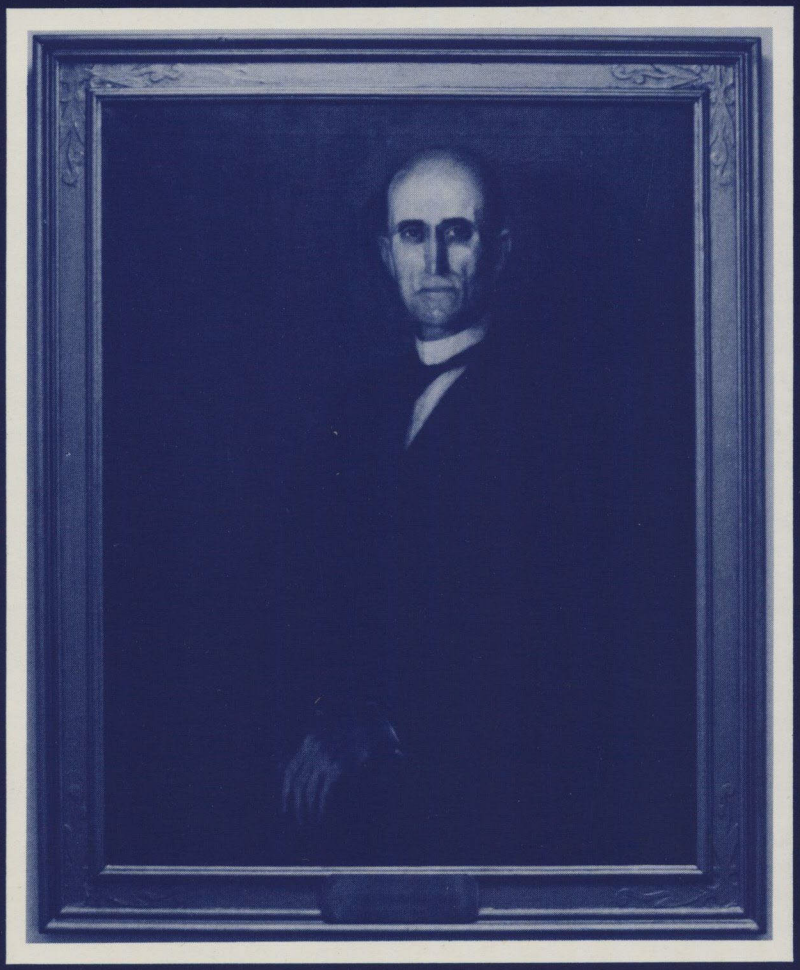
Kentucky LAWYER

University of Kentucky College of Law

Volume 2 Number 1 Fall/Winter 1991



Dean's Report

Dean Rutheford B Campbell

Each year, the beginning of classes is a hectic time for all of us at the law school. Although I always look forward to the return of the students and the opportunity to get back into the classroom, the blizzard of paperwork and the myriad of problems that surface during those first couple of months often seem oppressive.

So, when Todd Eberle sends me a gentle (or, truthfully, a not so gentle) reminder that my letter for the Kentucky Lawyer is due, I always groan. As I begin to prepare to write my letter, however, my spirits rise, since this letter gives me the opportunity to reflect a bit on our situation at the law school and consider the progress we made over the last year.

Today, as I consider on our situation and the events of the last academic year, I am aware of the difficulties that we face. Notwithstanding, I am proud of what the law school has been able to accomplish and exceedingly optimistic about where we are going. In fact, all this makes me feel so good that it almost compensates for all of the silly reports that I have to fill out and the useless information I am required to supply to the federal government, state, University, Lexington Campus, AALS, ABA, KBA, LSAT, NALP, CHE, ETC. (I am lying, of course; not even our progress can remove the pall of depression that falls from such oppressive bureaucratic demands).

During 1990, we set an all time record (and a big record) for our fund raising. As you may have heard, we raised approximately $670,000. This was nearly twice as much as we have ever raised before. In the course of this, we established three new professorships at the law school. The Wyatt, Tarrant & Combs Professorship was established as a result of an $85,000 gift to the law school by Wyatt, Tarrant & Combs. Also, we completed the second year of our Ashland Oil Challenge by establishing a second Ashland Oil Professorship of Law. Finally, we established the Wendell H. Ford Professorship of Law. It is now our largest professorship and has an endowment of nearly $200,000.

Our support was not limited to professorships, however. Joel Williamson, a 1970 graduate of the College of Law, made a $50,000 cash gift to the law school, and we used that to establish the Joel Williamson Scholarship Fund. We made our first award from that endowment in April of this year, and Brett Todd is our first Joel Williamson Scholar here at the law school.

In addition to all of this, we received literally hundreds of gifts from friends and alumni. Without these gifts, our success would not have been so great last year.

During the last academic year, we made a major commitment to strengthen our development capability and now have hired our first, full-time Director of Development, Debbie Wells. Debbie is originally from Muhlenberg County and has extensive development experience. This is a major resource commitment for us, but it is an essential foundation for the law school as we move toward the twenty-first century.

Other good things happened to the law school during the last year. Our 1991 entering class has the best credentials of any class we have ever taken. Our median LSAT score for that class jumped by two points to a 38. In addition, we received additional support for our library. Our faculty salaries continued to become more competitive. Our teaching is rock solid, and our faculty is productive.

All of this is not to imply that the College of Law is without problems. We are constantly struggling to make sense of our exceedingly tight budget. We need additional funding for our library. We are nervous about the job market for law students. We may be facing budgetary shortfalls in the next year or so. We need additional faculty to expand our course offerings and provide more hands-on experiences for our students.

Problems such as these are always present in a law school, however, and should not deflect us from the realization that the law school is headed in the right direction and is making real progress in the quality of its program.

Foundations are the key to quality improvements in any law school. A law school that has a fine faculty, a fine student body, a fine library and supportive alumni is by definition a fine institution. Glitz does not a great law school make. We understand that at the College of Law and are focusing our energies on foundations. We believe it is paying off.

KENTUCKY LAWYER

Kentucky Lawyer is published twice each year by the University of Kentucky College of Law, Lexington, Kentucky. Our purpose is to provide a source of information for alumni, friends and others interested in the law school's past, present and future as well as to offer a forum for the legal community to comment on substantive, practical or philosophical aspects of the law. Criticism or compliments are welcome.

Editor:	Todd B. Eberle
Asst. Editor:	David T. Miller
Composition:	M. Charlene Montgomery
Photographer:	Todd B. Eberle
Student Advisor:	Bryan N. West

THE COVER

Portrait of W. T. Lafferty as displayed at the College of Law.

Reflections

This issue's "Reflections" offers a fascinating account of the origins of the University of Kentucky College of Law. It was authored by the College of Law's first Dean, W.T. Lafferty of Cynthiana, Kentucky, dates back to 1904 and was originally published in the January 1923 issue of the Kentucky Law Journal (Volume XI, Number 2). You need not recall the times and the events. The names, places and institutions are familiar to all who have passed through or been associated with the law school. I commend it to you.

Editor

The Founding of the College of Law of the University of Kentucky

By W. T. Lafferty

In 1904, I was made a member of the Board of Trustees of the State College of Kentucky, and at the same time was made a member of the Executive Committee appointed by the Board of Trustees. My duties as a member of the Executive Committee called me from my home in Cynthiana to the seat of the College at Lexington, about once each month. As I had received my education at that college while it was a part of Kentucky University, the work soon became fascinating and I could see that an opportunity was offered for building up a great educational institution out of what had been begun as a State College after its separation from Kentucky University. Many difficulties appeared in the way of progress, such as lack of sufficient revenues from the state government, lack of modern ideas of college building, lack of cooperation from the public, and the unfortunate antagonism which was bitterly waged between the State College and other educational institutions of the state. My law practice was such that I could devote but little time to the great educational problems which at that time were being seriously neglected by the great mass of the people. By gathering information through catalogues from institutions in other states, by visitation at intervals to many state institutions, and by extensive correspondence, I convinced myself that Kentucky needed and should have a State University, modeled after the plans of like institutions of our more progressive states. To do this more money was needed and new legislation was necessary, creating the University and outlining a new policy for construction and methods of procedure. This idea was not altogether popular but enough support was secured in the Board of Trustees to begin the work contemplated. At the regular meeting of the board, held in June 1907, a committee was appointed, composed of Tibbis Carpenter, C. B. Terrell, and myself as chairman, called the Legislative Committee. It was vested with full power and authority to go before the approaching session of the State Legislature, which was to convene in January 1908, and secure, if possible, a change of the charter of State College to a State University, and to secure such additional financial aid as might be necessary to promote the new educational enterprise. At the outset it was apparent to the Legislative Committee that the name Kentucky should be attached to the name of the State University, and that it would be necessary to have some kind of understanding with the other university located in Lexington, operating under the name of Kentucky University, a name it had held about forty years, it being the university to which the State College had formerly been attached. I had now become a sectarian institution and we felt that some understanding could be reached whereby it might be induced to drop the name Kentucky in favor of the State University to be created. The Executive Committee of State College was called together to consider this question, and Col. Cassius M. Clay of Paris, who was a member of the denomination supporting that institution, and myself, also a member of that denomination as well as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Bible College connected with that university, were appointed a committee to take up negotiations with a like committee appointed by its Board of Trustees, leading up to an understanding as to the question of name. After repeated meetings an agreement was reached. Kentucky University , for a reasonable consideration, gave up the name Kentucky, and reassumed the name provided in her original charter, viz.: Transylvania University. Mr. Clay and I reported the result of our action; the report was approved, and the Legislative Committee authorized to adopt the name for the State University as agreed upon.

At the previous session of the Legislature two normal schools were provided for and at this time were in full operation, one located at Richmond, the other at Bowling Green. Unfortunately, bitter feeling and antagonism existed between those in charge of the two normal schools and those in charge of the State College. Each of the two normal schools had also appointed legislative committees to go before the approaching session to secure such legislation as each should need. The committee of the former was composed of President R. N. Roark, J. A. Sullivan, and Phil Grimstead; the latter, President Cherry, Whit Potter and a Mr. Cole. At that time Kentucky was meagerly giving money for the promotion of her educational interests, and I realized at the outset that the Normal Schools and the State College, working with the legislative body for a share of the little amount it was disposed to appropriate, would inevitably engender friction between the schools that would result in the failure of all. In the month of August, after our committees had been appointed, President Roark was employed to conduct the County School Teachers' Institute of Harrison County, to be held in Cynthiana. As chairman of our committee, I approached President Roark during the meeting and had a satisfactory talk with him in the hope of reconciling all the differences between the schools. I at once provided for a dining at our home in Cynthiana, at which President Roark was guest of honor, and to which I invited several prominent educators I could easily reach, including Professor Milford White, who was then head of the normal school connected with the State College. President Roark had been head of this normal school before the creation of the two separate normal schools. During the evening we talked of the possibilities of an educational uplift in Kentucky and I discovered the additional evidence that should we go to the Legislature without a common understanding, the existing feeling between the schools would mean absolute failure and a compromise was hardly to be expected. Next day, in another conference with President Roark, I suggested that our three committees meet together at an early date and ascertain whether or not an understanding on mutual lines could be reached. He agreed that the effort was advisable and I arranged for a meeting in Louisville, at which most of the members of the three committees were present. A preliminary understanding was reached and I was made chairman of the joint committee. We agreed that we would jointly visit the State College and each of the two normal schools, and as nearly as possible sum up the needs of each, then determine how much money we might be able to induce the Legislature to appropriate for the three schools and agree to the distribution among them. We visited the State College, the Normal School at Richmond, and then we went to Bowling Green, where we, after a prolonged meeting, accompanied with contentions and arguments, but each supported by absolutely honest and fair convictions of right, reached the conclusion as to what should be done in the way of the bill asking for an appropriation, and stating how it would be divided, which agreement is shown in the bill as it passed both houses of the Legislature and became a law, after a laborious task that

In This Issue

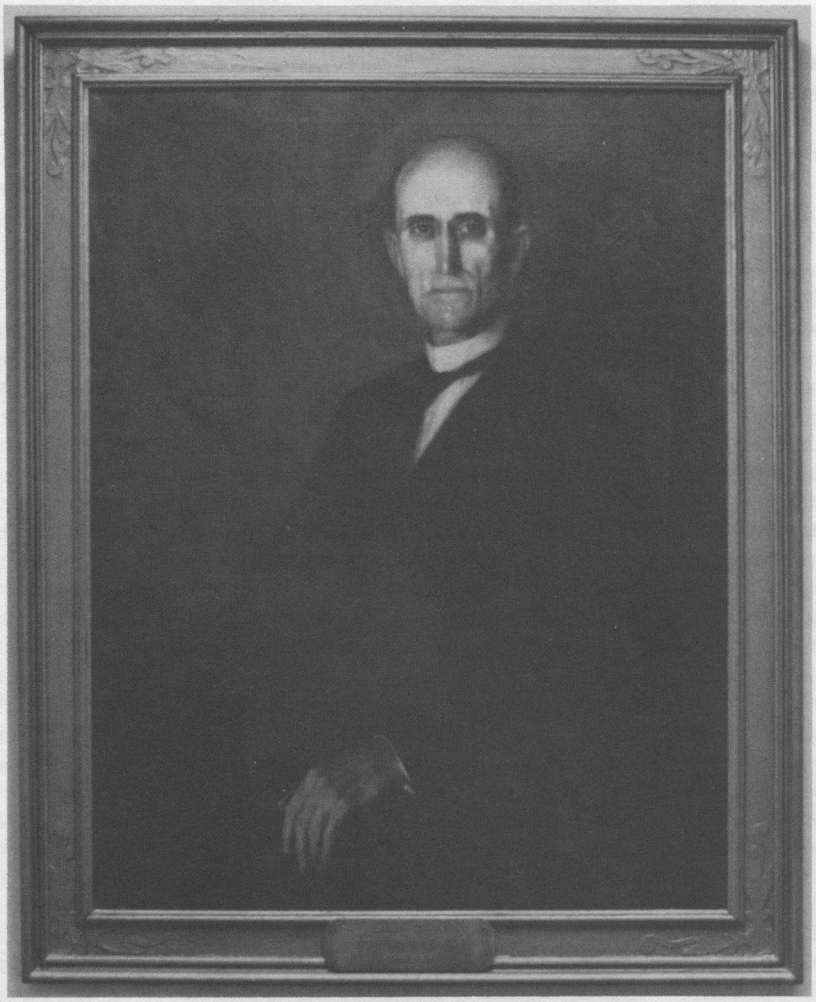
Reflections 1
Feature 4
Profile 5
News 7
UK/CLE 17
Student 18
Faculty 19
Alumni 22
FYI 28
College of Law Calendar . . . centerfold

fell upon us to induce the Governor to sign it. This bill was prepared by J. A. Sullivan and myself, submitted to our joint committee for its approval, and only slightly modified by the Legislature.

I carefully prepared a bill creating the State University in which new ideas of university policy were provided for so as to accord with the plans of other states in building their universities. This bill provided for closing the normal school as it then existed for the preparation of teachers for the rural schools, and to provide teachers only for the more advanced work. It also provided for the gradual elimination of the Academy, which was a part of the State College, as a preparatory school. These last provisions brought bitter attacks from the State College management, but that opposition was overcome by the action of the Board of Trustees and the bill became a law.

During this period it became necessary for me to impose seriously upon my business at home, by reason of my personal attention being needed at practically every step as the work proceeded. While each of us worked without pay, we were rewarded in the splendid success that crowned our efforts, as we saw Kentucky make her beginning in her upward strides for higher education.

The bill creating the University provided for many new features and policies, among them being the creation of a Medical Department and Law Department. At a meeting of the Executive Committee in April, 1908, just after the new law had been made, I was asked to organize the department of law, to be one of the colleges of the University. I was at that time enjoying an extensive law practice in my home town in Cynthiana and the salary that was offered to one who might become the first dean of the College of Law was to be equal to that paid to the heads of the leading departments of the State College and controlled by the rules then in existence. The salary was not sufficient to justify me in taking up the work, but it was believed that the position of Comptroller would also be created and a salary attached to that office. I was asked to take the two positions and work them in conjunction, devoting my whole time to the work. I agreed to undertake the work as an experiment for the period of one year, and if success should seem assured and my work proved congenial to me and satisfactory to the University authorities, I agreed to abandon my law practice and take up the work permanently. For the period of the first year, beginning July 1, 1908, I traveled each day on the L & N Railroad back and forth between my home at Cynthiana and Lexington, a distance of 33 miles, working at the new problem. The experience of the first year convinced me of the great possibilities for building up a great university with a College of Law as one of its integral parts. I thereupon entered into a regular contract with the University authorities and took hold of both positions with the determination to make a great success if possible of this new field. This arrangement made it necessary for me to sell my home in Cynthiana and take up my residence in Lexington, which was done in October, 1909.



W. T. Lafferty, first dean, UK College of Law 1908-1922

In the Organization of the College of Law I was given a free hand by the Board of Trustees, except as to the amount of money that I was allowed to spend, which was by force of circumstances very limited. I looked around among the buildings, then in use upon the campus, and the only space available was in the two rooms in the Educational Building, together with a small room for an office. I was able to secure from the small amount of money provided for the purpose sufficient to engage the services of Judge Charles Kerr of Lexington, and T.E. Moore of Paris, each of whom agreed to devote one hour each day to the teaching of law in the new college. We three constituted the first Law Faculty, and began our work in September, 1908, with a matriculation of 28 law students. At the time there were five other law schools in the state, each of which provided only a two years' course in law, with no particular school training for the students who might attend their schools. It was in my mind at the outset to make a Law School with the requirements of the American Standard, which was a three year course in law, based upon at least a four year high school course, and I was determined that the University should have nothing less. However, during the experimental year I thought it not advisable to place the standard too high until our people could be educated up to it. The first year was a two year course, based upon the equivalent of a high school course.

Before the beginning of the work in September of that year, I spent quite a while in the Law College of Michigan University studying their methods and plans, and during that year I kept in close touch with many of our best law schools by correspondence and by all other possible means. The first year was satisfactory and after consulting many of my friends of the legal professional throughout the state, I became convinced that the state was ready for a good, up-to-date law school.

Our equipment during that year consisted of the blackboards and benches we found in the two rooms assigned us, and no books except the text books used in the classes, and copies of the Kentucky Code and Statutes.

During the summer, after the close of the first year, I visited the Law College of Chicago University and spent some time in watching the manner of conducting the instructional work and all methods in use in that rapidly growing modern school. I must acknowledge the many favors shown me while there by Dean Hall of the Law College, who entered sympathetically into the plans I was making, and who was unsparing in the use of his time, giving me all possible aid.

We opened the second year with the American Standard course adopted, and about forty students. We had the same Law Faculty, with a few law lecturers provided additionally, and had added to our law library a set of Kentucky Reports, about 300 volumes from my own law library, and a few small gifts which made our library contain about 500 volumes. We continued our work in the quarters originally assigned to use until the latter part of the second year, April, 1910. I was then allowed the take the third story of the Science Building, which had been vacated by the Mining College, and was given permission to have it prepared as I thought best for the accommodation of the College of Law. We were able to move into the new quarters before the close of the school year and the year ended enthusiastically and with great satisfaction to our faculty. We had at that time attracted considerable attention throughout the state, and I pushed every opportunity possible to further our growth.

During the summer vacation, I visited other law schools, made many new acquaintances among law school men, attended the Association of American Law Schools, and made application for admission to membership in that body, which at that time was composed of a limited number of the best law schools of the country, with only three schools of the entire south able to offer the necessary qualification for admission. The next year, after my application had lain over the required length of time for investigation, our school was admitted to membership. During the same summer, following the close of our second year I was able to add to our law faculty Judge Lyman Chalkley, who for many years had been a successful law teacher, and who agreed to devote his entire time to teaching in our school.

We opened our doors in September of our third year with a good increase in our attendance and during the year added much to our library by purchase and by gifts, the most valuable of which was that of Mrs. Ezekiel Clay of Paris, Ky., who gave a large collection of law books from the valuable library of her former husband, Honorable George C. Lockhart, deceased. By the close of the year our library contained about 3,500 volumes of well selected law books, and the third year ended with great success.

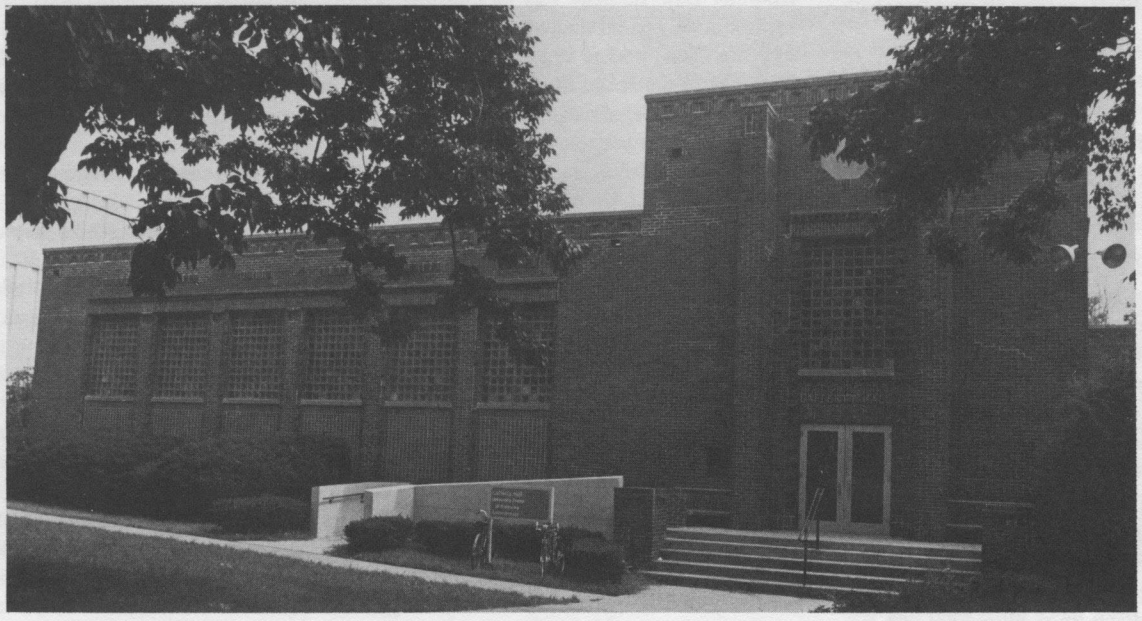
At the opening of the fourth year we had lost from our faculty T. E. Moore, but had added G. W. Vaughn, J. R. Bush and J. Embry Allen, each of whom was a practicing lawyer at the Lexington Bar and each devoted a part of his time to teaching in the College of Law. We also added several lecturers on special subjects. Our student body increased in numbers and was made up of young men much better fitted for the law work. Our law library was increased about 1,000 volumes during the year and our year closed with marked success.

We opened the fifth year with the same law faculty of the previous year and a still further increase in the number of students. During the year we strengthened our curriculum, added to our law library a full set of the English Reported Cases, and some other small sets, which made the library at the close of the year contain about 5,500 volumes. That year was noticeable for the enthusiastic way in which both faculty and students entered into the work and which closed with success beyond our expectations. The enthusiastic spirit of the students told for good, for our further advance in this—that each became a walking advertiser for the College of Law.

We have since that year continued to strengthen our curriculum, faculty and library, until we have now added to our faculty the Hon. Ruben B. Hutchcraft, of Paris, who will devote all his time to teaching, Judge George DuRelle, as special lecturer on Federal Law and Procedure, John J. Tigert, Instructor in Civil Law, and five members of the Lexington Bar, each of whom will deliver a course of lectures along special lines. We feel we now have a faculty equal to any in the South or West. Our library will contain, by the time school opens in September, about 9,000 volumes, including the valuable collection of law books assigned to our use by President Henry S. Barker.

This resume in written at Chicago, during my vacation, August, 1915.

W. T. Lafferty



Lafferty Hall, home of the College of Law from 1938-1965.

Michael M. Hawkins, '72, (back row, extreme left) on Sister Cities Exchange Program between the members of the bar of Cincinnati, Ohio and Kharkov in the Ukraine.

Michael W. Hawkins, Class of 1972, is one of eight Cincinnati area attorneys who visited the then USSR as part of a Sister City Exchange Program with the city of Kharkov in the Ukraine. Mike told Kentucky Lawyer, "The opportunity to travel to the Soviet Union, which included two days in Moscow and seven days in Kharkov in the Ukraine, was without question an opportunity of a lifetime. The trip was further enhanced by having the opportunity to interact and communicate with attorneys (advocates), law professors, judges, government leaders, elected officials, college professors, businessmen, students and citizens of the Soviet Union."

To be sure, changes have occurred since Mike's visit, but they serve only to make his article more timely. We thank Mike for sharing his experience with us.

Editor

A First Hand View of the USSR and Its Legal System

by Michael W. Hawkins

Upon our arrival in Moscow, we were met by Sasha and Lenya, two law professors from the Kharkov Law Institute, and Uri Voniv, our tourist interpreter. These three individuals spent more time with our group than any others and accompanied us on our travels and eleven-hour train ride from Moscow to Kharkov as well as on our return trip and from Kharkov and two days in Moscow. Not only did we learn much about the legal system in the Soviet Union from them, but we also shared meals with them in their apartments, toasting freedom, friendship and peace. It is also from these three men that we recognized that we all search for freedom, wish for peace and that our countries are made up of human beings who share fundamental common interests. They became our friends and hopefully, will be part of a delegation of eight Soviet attorneys who are scheduled to visit Cincinnati in December.

We saw lines for bread, milk, tobacco, gold and other commodities. We shopped in their spartan stores, saw cashiers using abacuses to total up purchases, walked in parks and farmer markets.

The main focus of our trip was to observe the Soviet legal system and to exchange ideas and thoughts about our legal system. As in the United States, a legal education is the foundation for a legal career in the Soviet Union. The Kharkov Law Institute has an enrollment of approximately 6,000 students, employs 330 faculty members, and is one of only four legal institutes in the entire Soviet Union. Students enter the Soviet legal study program upon graduation from high school; it takes five years to complete. Admission is granted only after passing a rigorous test. Upon graduation, each "lawyer" (equivalent to the American paralegal with additional legal studies) is guaranteed a position within the government and may have the opportunity to begin preparation to be a criminal investigator, or judge, or "advocate" (the Soviet term for attorney) for a wide range of law-related positions.

Within each judicial district the government determines how many advocates practice, a figure which is based upon the population in that district. In order to become an advocate, a lawyer must participate in an internship program under other advocates for a period of two to three years. At the end of this time, only if a position is open and if the individual pursues an oral exam can the individual actually practice as an advocate. To the best of my knowledge, advocates are employees of the government and represent the defendant in a criminal matter as well as the plaintiff or defendant in a civil matter. Because there is a limited number of advocates in a given judicial district, there are many people who even if able to afford the fee, cannot acquire the necessary legal representation.

I learned that there is a severe lack of confidence in the Soviet legal system. Historically, many of the advocates were members of the Communist Party and the individuals who needed legal assistance often had grievances against the Party or the government. It quickly became apparent that the same feeling exists today as Soviet citizens frequently approached our group and requested legal service in one form or another. They felt that if an American attorney would pursue their claim, it would be recognized by the system.

While in Kharkov, we did meet some advocates who had recently established a legal cooperative or as we know it, a private law firm. We learned that the advocates who work for the government are not truly independent and in their opinion do not adequately represent the needs of the people.

While in the Ukraine, we had the opportunity to witness how a case is conducted in the district and appellate courts. The district court is the equivalent of the first level of civil and criminal courts in the United States. Cases involving misdemeanors and minor civil disputes are heard here. An appointed judge tries the case and is accompanied by two lay people. Most of these lay people are factory workers from the area and have been elected by their fellow employees to serve with the judge. We learned that the judge and lay people actually vote on the issue of guilt or innocence and collectively assign the appropriate punishment. The appellate court was much more formal than the district court and heard appeals from the district court, criminal cases and more complex civil matters.

On two occasions, we had the opportunity to meet with the organized bar at which time we met with the organization's officers. The organization clearly recognizes the need for the privatization of legal service and severance from the government. Although a tedious process, some success in asserting independence is evident.

It is clear that the Soviet legal system has a solid foundation, however, its validity to the people of the Soviet Union will become apparent only after substantial changes have taken place and the advocates are independent of governmental or Communist influence. Although our encounter with the advocates was brief, the assistance and encouragement we offered them provided the impetus for taking the first steps. When they come to Cincinnati in December, additional opportunities to communicate will enhance these efforts.

Profile

Professor Carolyn S. Bratt excells at teaching as well as her other responsibilities

Carolyn S. Bratt, W. L. Matthews Professor of Law, Serves not only the law school, but also the University and the community. As Chair of the University Senate, she has heightened the visibility of the College of Law on the UK Campus. The following article appeared earlier in Communi-K, the University of Kentucky's faculty/staff newspaper. We are pleased to reprint it here with the permission of the author.

Editor

A Passion for Justice Guides Professor Carolyn Bratt

By Heidi Bright Parales

Students attend law school for many reasons including promising careers, the desire to help others and a basic, scholarly interest in reading the law.

Carolyn Bratt earned her juris doctor degree for different reasons. Her passion for justice led her to law school to gain tools that would bring about greater equality for women.

She didn't always have this passion for justice, but did have a well-tuned sense of fairness. She had lived a fairly usual life, graduating from college, getting married and staring a family. She taught junior high history in Syracuse, New York.

About her second year at the school, her principal asked her to volunteer to coach the girls' basketball team. She accepted. In the spring however, she discovered the that boys' coach got paid.

"When I asked about it, I was told that what I did didn't amount to anything worth being paid for," she says, "that offended my sense of fairness."

The problem wasn't just the lack of pay. The girls were being short-changed in terms of equipment.

Bratt went to complain to the Syracuse Board of Education. "I thought I did a very effective presentation," she recalls. Yet she knew she wasn't getting much respect from the board members because she was a junior high school teacher.

Now, Bratt felt not only the injustice of the situation, but also their lack of respect for her job. Seeds of discontent were sown.

Part of her solution came one night when she was watching television. With great interest she saw a demonstration by six or eight women who were with the Syracuse chapter of the National Organization for Women.

"It suddenly dawned on me that maybe these people would be interested in what was going on with these girls' basketball programs," she recalls.

She attended a meeting and found the support she wanted for girls' athletics.

Two of the women in the group were lawyers, and another was in law school. "It seemed to me after being involved in the women's movement for a few years that law school would allow me to gain some of those skills that I could then use to do something about some of the social issues of the day," she recalls.

She was already wearing out in the classroom. "I began to feel like my life was spent primarily doing the kinds of administrative tasks that were assigned, and less and less of my time could be devoted to teaching," she says.

It was time for a change. She gained entrance to Syracuse University College of Law and knew she had made the right decision.

"I discovered that I love law, but I missed teaching so much," she says. "After a few weeks in law school I realized that what I wanted to do was teach in a law school. That way I'd get to do the best of all possible things—use my law training but also teach students."

She graduated with her JD in law in 1974 and then worked for a year as a clerk to the New York State Supreme Court Appellate Division.

The following year she had four job offers, but Kentucky provided the best combination of what she was looking for—a good regional law school in a nice place to raise a child.

She came as an assistant professor. Outside the classroom she began volunteering for the Kentucky Commission on Women, helping them with legal problems. Later she was appointed to the commission, and began chairing it under Governor Martha Layne Collins.

"It was in that capacity that I had input into various pieces of legislation, either actually drafting it or testifying for or against legislation that would impact on women," she says.

For all her efforts, Bratt has received numerous civic and organizational awards given by such groups as the YWCA, Midway College, the Federal Correctional Institute, Kentucky State University, the AAUW, UK and the Kentucky Commission on Women.

"Those awards are always kind of an embarrassment to get," she says. "There are so many women doing so may things that ultimately help all women that it feels awkward to be singled out."

Bratt, however, has been singled out for good reason. She has spent 15 years speaking to women's groups working on women's issues, participating in the drafting of legislation dealing with issues relevant to women—all of which are incremental accomplishments.

"You do them every day, you do them every week, you do them as they arise. Ultimately you hope that it will have some kind of an impact," she says.

The same incremental principles apply in the classroom. "I know I have trained literally hundreds of women attorneys," she says. "Ultimately that may make a difference in how law is practiced. But to say, 'Today I did this, and it was a great step for women,' that just doesn't happen. You just keep doing it every day."

Recently she worked as chairperson of the UK Senate Council Ad Hoc Committee on the Status of Women.

"I know from my reading that there have been studies done at other institutions that have uncovered significant problems," she says. "One would assume that since we are not immune to the same kinds of problems as other schools, we would have problems here."

The committee examined the economic, social and political status of all women employees and proposed methods to eliminate barriers to participation in the University community.

"The report in itself isn't going to make some major change in how women feel about their employment at UK," notes Bratt, "but it's a step in the right direction. It's a beginning."

The Senate Council, which approved this study, has elected Bratt as the Council chairwoman for the current year.

As chairwoman, Bratt says she as a much better sense of what the University is about. "Most of my experience has been in the College of Law. Now I get to see both the Lexington Campus and the Medical Center," she says.

She finds it a nice change of pace from her regular work in teaching, research and writing, though she continues teaching.

"I wouldn't totally give up teaching," she says. "I'd miss the classroom too much. It's a wonderful experience to go into a classroom and know after 50 minutes, that the students actually learned something they didn't know, and that you've facilitated the process."

"When you teach, your influence isn't just for the day you teach them that material. It goes on forever because you have helped somebody learn something that they will use in the future. I find that exciting. I love to watch the students finally grasp an idea, and its a challenge to me to see whether I can help them do that."

Her love of teaching is evident by her many academic and professional awards. She has received the Duncan Award for Excellence in Teaching, the Cassis Award for Excellence in Legal Research and Scholarship, the Faculty Advisor Excellence Award, the Alumni Professor of Law Award, the Great Teacher Award, and the College of Law Outstanding Teacher award.

Currently the W.L. Matthews Professor of Law, Bratt teaches courses in property law and gender discrimination, her two favorite areas of law. She continues to practice law to keep her skills current.

"If you don't, you end up giving intellectual advice to your students without being touched by the reality of the practice of law," she explains.

"On the other hand, I don't think I ought to be practicing law just to make money, so I represent neighborhood associations in zoning matters because I find that interesting. I do other kinds of pro-bono work which allows me to use that training in ways that I think are useful rather than just profitable."

In addition to all her other duties, Bratt was on the presidential search committee and is the new faculty member on the Board of Trustees. "I'm really delighted to be on the Board of Trustees because I think there's a real need to help the trustees understand that the faculty is engaged in the very enterprise that this university is all about. We have ideas and insight into the academic enterprises that are really worth listening to," she says.

Bratt will be heard. Her passion for fairness and justice will ensure that much.

The Robert M. and Joanne K. Duncan Faculty Award For Outstanding Teaching

1984	Richard H. Underwood
1985	M. Louise Graham
1986	Willburt D. Ham
1987	Thomas J. Stipanowich
1988	Robert G. Schwemm
1989	Sarah N. Welling
1990	Carolyn S. Bratt
1991	Eugene R. Gaetke

Nina Totenberg

Nina Totenberg Featured for 7th Roy and Virginia Ray Lecture

The 1991 Roy and Virginia Ray Lecture was delivered by National Public Radio's award-winning legal affairs correspondent, Nina Totenberg. The topic for the November 7th lecture was "Covering The Courts: Cases Convictions and Confirmations."

Ms. Totenberg's coverage of the U.S. Supreme Court and of legal affairs in general has won widespread recognition. In 1988 she won perhaps the foremost prize in broadcast journalism, the Alfred I. duPont-Columbia University Silver Baton, for her coverage of Supreme Court nominations. She has been honored six times by the American Bar Association for continuing excellence in legal reporting. She has also won the coveted Sidney Hillman Foundation Award, the Headliner Award, and the Armstrong Award. A frequent contributor to major newspapers and periodicals, she has published articles in The New York Times magazine, The Christian Science Monitor, and The Harvard Law Review.

Author Nat Hentoff commented on the 1991 Ray Lecturer by noting, "Nina Totenberg's listeners get a multidimensional sense of the drama, intellectual and otherwise, of a Supreme Court case: the struggle in the courts below, the oral arguments in the High Court, and the divisions among the Justices. She makes the law come alive. She covers the Justice Department the same way, as well as the judiciary committees of the House and Senate. Totenberg is unfailingly lucid, crisp, and, as someone said, gives you an enlivening sense of informed discovery."

This was the 7th biennial Ray Lecture since the fund was established in 1977. The lectures are offered free of charge to the legal community and the public. The series is supported with monies provided by Roy and Virginia Ray of Dallas, Texas. Mr. Ray is a 1928 graduate of the College of Law. Previous lecturers in the series have included William S. Sessions, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (1989); The Honorable Abner J. Mikva, Judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit (1987); The Honorable Prentice H. Marshall, Judge of the United States District Court for the Northern District of Illinois (1985); The Honorable David L. Bazelon, Judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit (1983); Jesse H. Choper, then Professor, now Dean, University of California School of Law (1981); and Roger C. Cramton, then Dean, now Professor, Cornell Law School (1979).

John M. Rogers Named Associate Dean for Academic Affairs

Professor John M. Rogers has been named Associate Dean for Academic Affairs at the University of Kentucky College of Law for 1991-93. He replaces William H. Fortune who served in that position from 1989-91.

Rogers has taught at the law school since 1978. Prior to teaching he was an appellate attorney in the Civil Division of the United States Department of Justice, in Washington, D.C. from 1974 to 1978. He served as a visiting professor at the Department of Justice from 1983 to 1985. In 1987-88, Professor Rogers was a Fulbright Senior Lecturer at the College of Foreign Affairs, Beijing, Peoples Republic of China.

Wells Named Alumni/Development Director

Deborah A. Wells, formerly Director of Development for the College of Health and Human Performance at the University of Maryland, has returned to her native Kentucky to accept a position as Director of Development and Alumni Affairs at the University of Kentucky College of Law. A 1972 graduate of Western Kentucky University, Wells has had experience in teaching, marketing and sales in addition to her recent 6 years of experience in development work at the University of Cincinnati and the University of Maryland. She will become the first Director in a newly created position at UK with responsibilities in the area of fund-raising, alumni relations, and institutional advancement.

Barbara and Raymond Edelman, '77, Donate Finishing Touch to College of Law Courtroom

In early 1990, the University of Kentucky's College of Law Courtroom possessed only a faded United States flag, no Kentucky flag, and no seal of the Commonwealth. Today, through the efforts of a law school administrator, a student, and several alumni we have replaced the worn U.S. flag, obtained a Kentucky flag, received two new flagpoles and stands, and installed a Seal of the Commonwealth on the wall over the Judge's bench. All of this was accomplished at no cost to the state or the law school.

The final piece of decorating to enhance the appearance of the courtroom was a 25 inch diameter Seal of the Commonwealth donated by Barbara and Raymond Edelman, both from the Class of 1977. Their generosity has lent much to the dignity of the courtroom which also serves as the law school's auditorium.

The most recent group attracted by the new ambiance was none other than the Justices of the Supreme Court of Kentucky who heard oral arguments for several cases in the College of Law Courtroom on Friday, October 18, 1991 affording both students and members of the public a greater understanding of the judicial process. Our "friends of the court" have made the surroundings of the courtroom most pleasant.

In Memorium
Wendell H. Cherry, Class of 1959

1959 Graduate and lifelong patron of the University of Kentucky College of Law, Wendell H. Cherry, died of cancer at his home in Louisville on July 16, 1991. In addition to the founding of Humana, Inc., he was widely known for his contributions to the arts, sports and community. His continual support of the law school continues to be reflected in part by the Wendell Cherry Professorships established for College of Law faculty. Former Kentucky Governor and UK law classmate John Y. Brown, Jr. said at Cherry's death, "We've lost a great Kentuckian. His life, I think, should be an inspiration to all young men that grow up and go to school and work in Kentucky. He and David Jones built one of the greatest American business stories of the last 20 years...It shows what a Kentucky student and businessman can do."

Born in Hart County near Horse Cave, Kentucky, Cherry graduated from Caverna High School and received his bachelor's degree in business from the University of Kentucky in 1957. Cherry served as Editor-In-Chief of the Kentucky Law Journal and graduated first in his class from the College of Law in 1959. His leadership and his presence in Kentucky as well as at the law school will be greatly missed.

Professor William Fortune on Sabbatical
But Hard at Work

Professor William H. Fortune, most recently Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, is taking a one year leave of absence to work for the Kentucky Department of Public Advocacy.

Paul Isaacs, the State Public Advocate, in making this announcement said: "The Department is very excited to have working for us a lawyer with Bill's experience, both as a litigator and as a teacher. He is a recognized expert in the areas of criminal law, evidence, and professional ethics, all of which he has taught. He has written extensively on these areas, including a book on ethics with Professor Richard Underwood entitled Trial Ethics and, with Professor Robert Lawson, served as one of the principal authors of the new proposed Evidence Code. He currently serves on the Task Force on Sentencing and Sentencing Practice."

In discussing his plans to come with the Department, Bill stated that he was looking forward to working on cases from the trial level through the appellate process. He believes that by putting himself in the trenches he will have an opportunity "to charge [his] batteries."

Immediate Past President of American Civil Liberties Union
Delivers 1991 Oberst Lecture

Norman Dorsen, 15 year President of the American Civil Liberties Union (1976-90), and now Stokes Professor of Law and Director of the Arthur Garfield Hays Civil Liberties Program at New York University School of Law, delivered the 1991 Paul and Elizabeth Oberst Lecture. The lecture was held at the U.K. College of Law on Wednesday, October 23, 1991.

Professor Dorsen, a former law clerk to the late Supreme Court Justice John M. Harlan, is the author or co-author of several books on constitutional protections of civil liberties including The Rights of Americans and The Evolving Constitution. He has argued before the U.S. Supreme Court and his testimony has been sought by key Congressional committees. Professor Dorsen has lectured widely throughout the United States and has served as a visiting professor at Harvard University Law School, the University of California at Berkeley School of Law and at the London School of Economics. Among the significant cases that he argued before the U.S. Supreme Court are; In re Gault, Levy v. Louisiana, Roe v. Wade, Gideon v. Wainright, The Pentagon Papers Case, and U.S. v. Nixon (the Tapes case). The lecture was made possible by the Paul and Elizabeth Oberst Human Rights Fund at the College of Law.

The Oberst Human Rights Fund of the University of Kentucky College of Law was established by Professor of Law Emeritus Paul Oberst and his wife Libbet. The Fund is used to support lectures and other programs dealing with racial and religious discrimination, freedom of speech, academic freedom and tenure, due process and equal protection of the laws. Donations can be made to the fund by check payable to the University of Kentucky with a notation that the monies are to be applied to the Oberst Human Rights Fund.

Professor Tom Stipanowich to Head Justice Center

On June 11, 1991 Kentucky Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert F. Stephens announced the appointment of a 12 member task force which will organize the state's first Justice Center. UK law professor, Thomas J. Stipanowich was named as Chair of the Task Force.

The Center is a joint project of the University of Kentucky Colleges of Law and Social Work, the Fayette County Courts, local Community and Social Service Organizations as well as the organized bar in Kentucky. The purpose of the Justice Center will be to provide alternative methods in dispute resolution outside the court system. Focus will be given to mediation and volunteer mediators will be trained to assist individuals in resolving disputes which are more acceptable between the parties than what might be obtained through the court system. This first Justice Center in Kentucky allows the state to join numerous other states who have had successful experiences with similar projects.

In describing its overall philosophy, Professor Stipanowich noted "The basic idea of the Justice Center is to fill a gap in the legal system by helping people to resolve their own controversies in a mutually acceptable manner."

Bruce Orwin, '81
Receives
Nature Conservancy Award

Bruce Orwin, a 1981 graduate of the University of Kentucky College of Law, received an outstanding volunteer commendation award from the Kentucky Chapter of The Nature Conservancy, a private, international non-profit conservation organization. Orwin practices with the firm of John G. Prather in Somerset, Kentucky.

Orwin provided pro bono legal services for the acquisition of 1,126 acres of biologically significant land along the Rockcastle River by the Kentucky Chapter. Located in three separate tracts in Pulaski, Rockcastle, and Laurel Counties, this was a half million dollar project which will protect over 25 rare and endangered plant and animal species.

Orwin subsequently provided pro bono legal services for the transfer of 1,007 acres from The Nature Conservancy to the United States Forest Service for inclusion in the Daniel Boone National Forest. 140 acres will remain in the Nature Conservancy's care as the Mrs. Baylor O. Hickman Memorial Preserve. Orwin received his award at the 1990 Annual Meeting of the Kentucky Nature Conservancy at Barren River Lake State Park on May 12, 1990.

Student Public Interest Law Foundation

SPILF? Is this the acronym for yet another government agency? No! SPILF stands for the Student Public Interest Law Foundation. SPILF is one of the newest organizations formed by students at the University of Kentucky's College of Law. Law students Katherine Peebles, Melissa Bellew, Debbie Smiley, and Laura Hromyak founded the organization and are working hard to get SPILF off and running. Professor Roberta Harding, who recently joined the College of Law faculty, is the group's faculty advisor.

SPILF's primary goals are to provide students with information on public interest careers and to provide funds in order to grant student fellowships which will allow students to work at summer public interest internships.

This year's plans include applying for grant money from various sources to endow the Fellowship Fund, collecting materials on jobs in public interest law in order to create a public interest law information bank, and instituting a student pledge system to endow the Fellowship Fund. The pledge program will enable students working in non-public interest jobs during the summer to show their support for what their fellow students are doing.

SPILF has big plans and is applying energy and enthusiasm towards the accomplishment of their goals. It hopes to find the Kentucky legal community proud of and supportive of their efforts.

Oyez...Oh Nay!

In the Spring/Summer issue of Kentucky Lawyer we featured a list of 51 firms where all the named partners were living graduates of the University of Kentucky College of Law. There were at least 52! Our apologies to George Long and Roger Perry of Long and Perry in Benton, Kentucky for overlooking the only firm in Marshall County with the distinction of having all named partners UK College of Law graduates!

UK Law Professorships Named

Private donors to the College of Law have, in recent years, allowed the school to minimize departures while maximizing the experience and quality of our teaching faculty. We were again reminded of the generosity of our alumni and friends when Dean Rutheford B Campbell named the following professorships for the 1991-92 academic year:

W.L. Matthews Professors of Law	Carolyn S. Bratt Robert G. Lawson
Wendell Cherry Professor of Law	Eugene R. Gaetke
Ashland Oil Professors of Law	John H. Garvey Richard C. Ausness
Willburt D. Ham Professor of Law	Louise Graham
William T. Lafferty Professor of Law	Thomas P. Lewis
Laramie L. Leatherman Professor of Law	Martin J. McMahon
Brown, Todd & Heyburn Professor of Law	Robert G. Schwemm
Spears-Gilbert Professor of Law	Richard H. Underwood
Wyatt, Tarrant & Combs Professor of Law	Harold R. Weinberg
Dorothy Salmon Professor of Law	Alvin L. Goldman

UK Law Library Names New Director

Mark A. Linneman, a native of Buffalo, New York has been named as Director of the University of Kentucky College of Law Library. Mr. Linneman earned his Juris Doctor degree from the State University of New York at Buffalo and his Master of Law Librarianship from the University of Washington in Seattle. From 1976 to 1981 he served as Reference Librarian at the University of Iowa Law School. Since 1981, and immediately prior to coming to UK, he held the position of Law Librarian at the University of Melbourne in Melbourne, Australia.

Sharing Your Professional Experience with a Law Student: All the Questions You Were Afraid to Ask!

The College of Law Career Planning & Placement Office is starting a file of alumni who would be willing to discuss their practice specialty and/or choice of legal career with law students interested in that type of practice. Associate Dean Drusilla Bakert would like to hear from alumni in all practice settings: law firm, corporate, government, public interest, non-legal, etc. Help would be welcome from recent graduates as well as graduates with significant expertise. Those who agree to be included would be contacted first by Dean Bakert, and if they have time to help, would then be contacted by a UK student who wants to find out more about their area of practice—the work involved on a day-to-day basis, the satisfactions and frustrations, the classes taken in law school that have proved helpful, etc. If you would be willing to help UK law students make informed career decisions, please fill out the form below and return it to the placement office.

Name (Please Print): _____

Employer/Law Firm: _____

Office Address: _____

Position/Title: _____ Office Phone No: _____

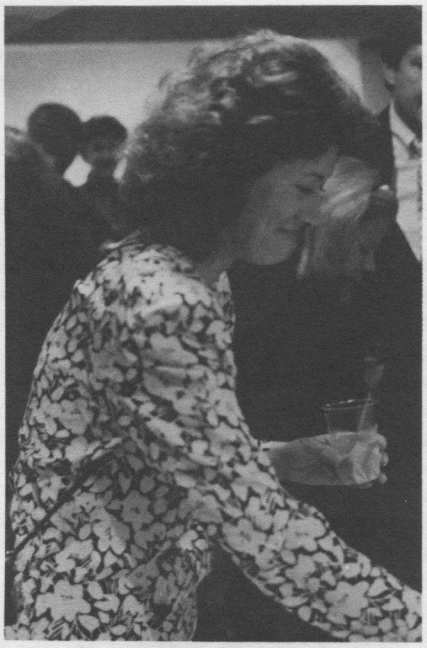
Practice Area(s): _____

_____

_____

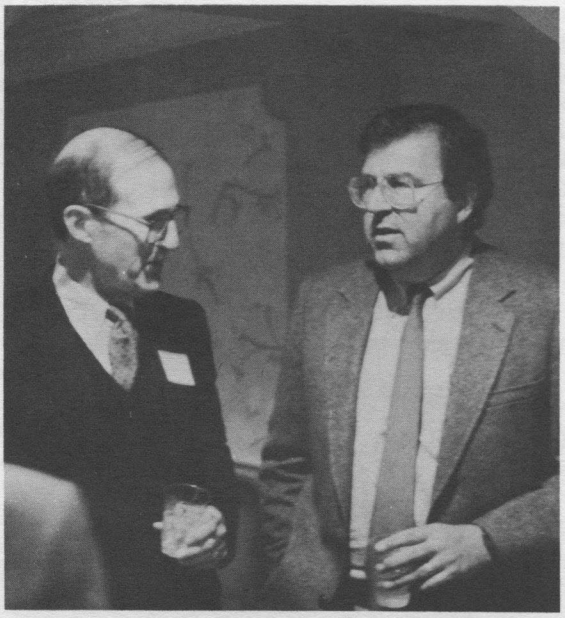
Thanks for your help.
Please detach and mail to: Drusilla Bakert, Room 261 College of Law Building, University of Kentucky, Lexington, KY 40506-0048.

1990 Alumni Association Reception



A post-game smile from Marie Alagia Cull '79

Mike Livingston '66 and wife Barbara add their spark to the festivities



Bill Stephens '72 arrives from Danville to catch up on news from alums

1991-92 Alumni Association Officers Elected

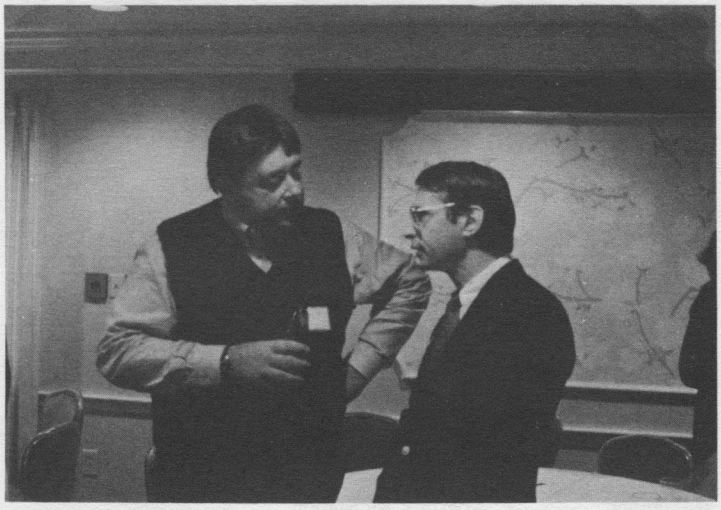
New officers of the University of Kentucky Law Alumni Association have been elected and installed by the 24 member Board of Directors. Serving for the 1991-92 term are: President Orson Oliver '68, President, Bank of Louisville; Vice President Edward J. Buechel '77, of Dinsmore & Shohl in Florence, Kentucky; Treasurer Charles J. Lavelle '75, with Greenebaum Doll & McDonald in Louisville; and Secretary Drusilla Vansant Bakert, Associate Dean of the College of Law. In addition to the Law Alumni Association's role as sponsor of enjoyable functions such as the annual homecoming reception, it has purchased new flagpoles for new United States and Kentucky flags donated by alumni, commissioned the oil portrait of former Dean Robert G. Lawson, and recently paid for the reframing of portraits for all of the College of Law's nine former Deans.

1991 Fall Alumni Reception

The College of Law's Alumni Association sponsored the Fall 1991 Homecoming Reception on Saturday, November 2, 1991 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Lexington. Several "decennial" reunion classes celebrated that same weekend. The graduating classes of '42, '52, '62, '72, and '82 are encouraged to draw plans to celebrate next fall's homecoming weekend by reuniting with former classmates. The football/fall reunion weekends keep getting better each year!

John David Preston '76 and wife Mary cooperate for the Kentucky Lawyer photographer

October 13, 1990
Campbell House Inn
Lexington, Kentucky



Hank Davis '89 gets an update on the College of Law from Professor Alvin Goldman

Takayoski Yoroi, Visiting Professor, Ryukoku, University of Kyoto, Japan and wife Eiko compare notes with their guest.

UK Law Deans Join Gallery

How many individuals have held the position of Dean of the University of Kentucky College of Law? If you said "nine," you possess an excellent memory or made a lucky but well calculated guess. Associate Dean, Todd Eberle, who defers to Professor Emeritus Paul Oberst as unofficial Historian for the College of Law, has compiled a listing of nine Deans (not counting Acting Deans of which Professor Oberst was one) beginning with William T. Lafferty's appointment in 1908 to Rutheford B Campbell's appointment in 1988. Eberle assembled likenesses of all nine Dean's ranging from a restored photograph of Dean Alvin E. Evans (1927-48) via University Archives and contemporary photograph of Dean George W. Hardy (1973-76) via Baton Rouge, Louisiana, to the oil portraits done of Deans Thomas Lewis and Robert Lawson. With the financial assistance of the UK Law Alumni Association, the Dean's likenesses were framed or reframed uniformly to provide the College of Law with a sense of visual history for display in the law building.

Lexington artist Patricia DeCamp poses with her portrait of Dean Lawson

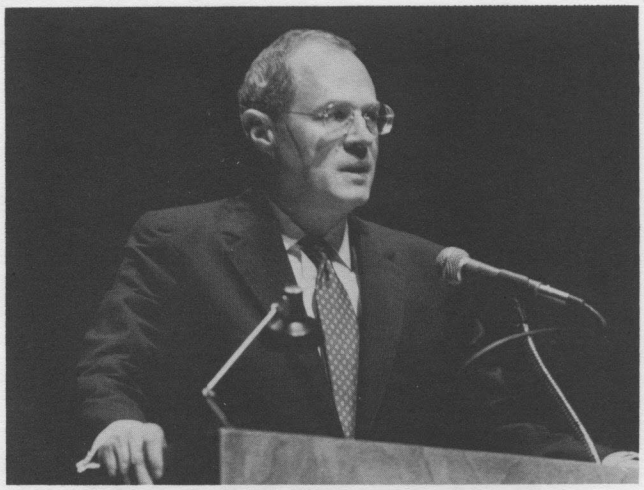
College of Law Selects Participants for Second Year of Randall-Park Colloquium

Dissemination of knowledge in the academic setting does not invariably flow only from professor to student. The sharing of knowledge, ideas, and research products flows continuously between individual faculty members as well as between colleges and universities. This too often informal process, has been given a structured existence at the University of Kentucky College of Law. Through the generosity of James Park, Jr. '58 and Katherine Randall '73 of Lexington, funding has been established for the Randall-Park Faculty Colloquium Series. For the second year in succession the University of Kentucky Law Faculty has had the benefit of expanding their knowledge on a variety of legal topics. The Randall-Park gift has provided the resources necessary for papers to be presented in legal and law-related areas from professors in other departments within the University, from professors at other law schools, and from among colleagues on the UK law faculty. Professor John H. Garvey, coordinator for the Colloquium Series announced the 1991-92 Series earlier this fall.

RANDALL-PARK FACULTY COLLOQUIUM SERIES

University of Kentucky
College of Law
1991-1992

September	-	Eugenia Toma Associate Professor UK College of Business and Economics "The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and Budgetary Signals From Congress"
October	-	Carol Rose Fred A. Johnston Professor of Property Yale Law School "Gaining and Losing Ground"
November	-	Martin J. McMahon Laramie Leatherman Professor UK College of Law "Economic and Social Engineering as Sources of Complexity in the Tax Code"
January	-	Michael P. Healy Assistant Professor UK College of Law "Judicial Review and CERCLA Cleanups"
February	-	Patricia Smith Associate Professor UK Department of Philosophy "Feminist Jurisprudence"
March	-	Eugene R. Gaetke, Cherry Professor - and - Sarah N. Welling, Alumni Professor UK College of Law "Money Laundering and Lawyers"
April	-	Robert J. Levy Dorsey & Whitney Professor University of Minnesota Law School "Attorneys' Fees in Divorce Cases"



Supreme Court Justice Anthony Kennedy at the Swinford Lecture, September 27, 1990

U.S. Supreme Court Justice Anthony Kennedy Delivers 7th Swinford Lecture

Students, lawyers, and the public were informed and inspired by United States Supreme Court Justice Anthony M. Kennedy on the occasion of the 7th Biennial Judge Mac Swinford Lecture. "Modern Democracies and the Spirit of the Constitution" proved to be a timely and intellectually challenging topic in light of global political changes over the past year. Justice Kennedy explored the origins and principles of our constitutional democracy in a historical context while aptly holding those principles up to the light of modern efforts toward building and sustaining democracies around the world. He also sketched his own judicial philosophy as he applied the principles to the work a United States Supreme Court Justice must undertake in analyzing cases.

Justice Kennedy delivered the September 1990 Swinford lecture at the University of Kentucky's Singletary Center for the Arts after welcomes by Dean Rutheford B Campbell and Bar President David L. Yewell, a memorial to the life and philosophy of Judge Swinford by U.S. Appeals Court Judge Pierce Lively, and an introduction of Justice Kennedy by Kentucky Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert F. Stephens.

In addition to the Thursday evening lecture, Justice Kennedy shared thoughts on the "human" side of working at the Supreme Court during a Kentucky Bar Foundation luncheon, met in open session with the College of Law student body, addressed combined student groups at another luncheon, and accorded additional time to meet informally with Kentucky bar leaders and members of the law faculty. Accompanied by his wife Mary Davis Kennedy, they were able to take advantage of visits to historic Gratz Park area homes, a private tour of a Bluegrass horse farm, and a trip to Shakertown Village. The two and one-half day period was personally and professionally enriching for all concerned.

The Swinford Lectureships were established in 1976 when the Kentucky Bar Association and the University of Kentucky College of Law entered into an agreement for joint sponsorship of a biennial lecture series honoring the memory of U.S. District Court Judge Mac Swinford. Since their inauguration in the fall of 1978, these lectures have served to perpetuate Judge Swinford's deep concern for legal ethics and professional responsibility. The College of Law is deeply appreciative of the continued support for the lectures by the Swinford family, the Kentucky legal profession, and the public.

The series has hosted such notable speakers as Archibald Cox, Judge Robert Keeton, former Attorney General Griffin Bell, and four sitting U.S. Supreme Court Justices; Rehnquist, O'Connor, Scalia, and Kennedy. An 8th Biennial Swinford Lecture in being planned for the fall of 1992.

University of Kentucky
College of Law
Fall 1991
Calendar

Pull Out Section

University of Kentucky

Fall

September

Sun	Mon	Tues	Wed	Thurs	Fri	Sat
1	2 Labor Day	3	4	5	6	7 School Law Football Miami of OH at UK
8 Rosh Hashana (sundown)	9 Rosh Hashana	10 Rosh Hashana	11	12	13	14
15	16	17 Yom Kippur (sundown)	18 Fall Campus Employment Interviews Begin Yom Kippur	19	20	21
22	23 First Day of Autumn	24	25	26	27	28 Land Use Football Kent St. at UK
29	30

October

Sun	Mon	Tues	Wed	Thurs	Fri	Sat
		1	2	3	4	5 Not-For Profit Corporations Football Ole Miss at UK Keeneland Opens
6 Keeneland Fayette Handicap	7	8 Keeneland	9 Human Rights Lecture 12:00 noon Norman Dorsen Keeneland	10 Keeneland	11 Keeneland	12 UK/CLE's 18th Anniversary Keeneland Breeder's Cup
13 Keeneland Spinster Stakes	14 Columbus Day Observed	15 Keeneland	16 Keeneland	17 Keeneland	18 Winning Jury Trials Mineral Law Seminar Lafferty Reception	19 College of Law Class of '51 & '71 Reunions Football LSU at UK • UK Fellows Dinner • Minority Student Visitation • Keeneland
20 Keeneland Breeders' Futurity	21	22 Keeneland	23 Keeneland	24 Keeneland	25 Keeneland	26 Keeneland Queen Elizabeth II Challenge Cup
27	28	29	30	31 Halloween

= UK/CLE Fall Conferences

College of Law Calendar

1991

November

Sun	Mon	Tues	Wed	Thurs	Fri	Sat
					1	2 Football Cincinnati at UK
3	4	5 Election Day	6	7 Roy Ray Lecture 7:00 Nina Totenberg	8 Corporate Counsel Institute Drafting Wills and Trusts	9
10	11 Veterans Day	12	13	14 Basketball USSR at UK	15	16
17	18	19	20	21	22 Negotiation & Settlement	23 Football Tennessee at UK
24	25	26	27	28 Thanksgiving	29	30

HOMECOMING
- Reunions
- Alumni Reception

December

Sun	Mon	Tues	Wed	Thurs	Fri	Sat
1	2 Hanukkah (sundown)	3 Hanukkah	4 Basketball Massachusetts at UK	5	6	7 Family Law
8	9	10 Basketball SW Texas St. at UK	11	12 Bankruptcy Institute Basketball Morehead St. at UK	13	14 Basketball Arizona St. at UK
15	16	17	18	19	20	21 Winter Solstice
22	23	24	25 Christmas	26	27	28 Basketball Louisville at UK
29	30	31 New Year's Eve

For information on other College of Law events call (606) 257-1678.

University of Kentucky
College of Law
Fall 1991
Calendar

Pull Out Section

Continuing education in the College of Law Courtroom/ Auditorium - An 18 year tradition

UK/CLE Logs Another "First" with May '91 Satellite Broadcast

Over the course of its 18 year history, the University of Kentucky College of Law's Office of Continuing Legal Education (UK/CLE) has had a tradition of "firsts." Since its inception as the first continuing legal education organization in Kentucky, it has maintained a leadership role both regionally and nationally for high quality, innovative educational services. Other "firsts" have included Kentucky's first intensive skills training course (10 days in trial advocacy); the nation's first annual seminar dedicated to Equine Law; Kentucky's first comprehensive library of handbooks for the practicing bar; and in May of 1991, Kentucky's first origination of a live satellite broadcast to multiple locations across the state. The four hour program was entitled, "Legal Ethics 1991" and was anchored by UK law professors William Fortune and Richard Underwood. More than 330 advance registrants had toll-free direct telephone contact with the broadcast site in Lexington. The time and expense involved in the presentation of live programs at locations outside Lexington or Louisville had become nearly prohibitive. Asking Kentucky attorneys to travel long distances for quality CLE offerings also hampered the efficient delivery of high quality CLE programs. UK/CLE found a single solution to this problem, two-way communication satellite broadcasts. While not all topics and formats lend themselves to statewide broadcasting, UK/CLE plans additional satellite broadcasts for the future.

"Firsts" don't come easy or even by following someone else's lead. The UK College of Law CLE Office possesses a small but creative and dedicated staff that takes pride in what they accomplish and the services they provide to the legal community. Their efforts are combined daily with the expertise of literally hundreds of attorneys who volunteer their services in contribution to the success of a quality continuing legal educational program. Thanks to these people, educational opportunities available to Kentucky law students, lawyers and judges are recognized at home, across the nation and around the world. Our thanks to all who are a part of this tradition.

Grant Awarded for Public Service Project

The UK Office of Continuing Legal Education was one of six recipients awarded grants for public service projects by the Kentucky Bar Foundation. A grant application was approved to publish a much needed resource in the area of Kentucky election law. The cost of producing the Kentucky Election Law Handbook will be subsidized by the grant. The publication will be made available to lawyers and the general public in 1992. The Kentucky Bar Foundation is a non-profit organization created to promote the administration of justice and educate the public on legal issues. We are grateful for their support of our program.

Debtor/Creditor Relations in Kentucky Becomes 14th UK/CLE Practice Handbook

A comprehensive treatment of legal and equitable remedies entitled Debtor/Creditor Relations in Kentucky has become the 14th title in UK/CLE's Practice Handbook Series. Additional upcoming titles will include Election Law and Employment Law. The "practice handbook" titles combined with the more narrowly focused titles in UK/CLE's Monograph Series currently cover twenty-two topic areas and offer well referenced, indexed resources for the legal profession. Currently available titles now include:

Handbooks
- Basic Personal Injury Anatomy
- Debtor/Creditor Relations in Kentucky
- Drafting Wills & Trusts - with supplement
- Federal Criminal Practice - with supplement
- Kentucky Business Organizations (2 volumes)
- Kentucky Civil Practice Before Trial - with supplement
- Kentucky Civil Practice At Trial
- Kentucky Civil Practice After Trial
- Kentucky Estate Administration
- Kentucky Health Law
- Kentucky Partnership Law
- Kentucky Real Estate Law & Practice (2 volumes)
- Kentucky Time Limitations - with supplement
- Workers' Compensation in Kentucky

Monographs
- Automobile Accident Litigation in Kentucky
- Guardians Ad Litem and Warning Orders
- Kentucky Land Use and Zoning Law - 2nd edition
- Kentucky Tax Law
- Legal Aspects of Horse Farm Operations
- Non-Profit Corporations in Kentucky - 2nd edition
- Private Adoption in Kentucky
- Protecting Intellectual Property Rights

For further information on UK/CLE publications or to receive the free 91-92 Catalog, please contact the UK/CLE Office, 260 Law Building, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky 40506-0048, phone (606) 257-2921.

Publications Update Launched with Supplements and New Editions

The Office of Continuing Legal Education has set the second phase of its publications effort into full swing with publication of supplements to its Practice Handbooks and new editions of its Monographs. As with all legal institutions, changes in the law inevitably resulted in changes for UK/CLE. Updating our law practice library allows the Office of Continuing Legal Education to maximize the utility and expand the scope of our print CLE services. Periodic updates will be scheduled for each title. In order to avoid the higher costs and prices of new editions, the practice handbook updates will most often take the form of supplements. Handbook supplements have been produced for Civil Practice Before Trial, Drafting Wills and Trusts, Federal Criminal Practice, and Kentucky Time Limitations. Second editions of monographs have been produced for Kentucky Law Use and Zoning and Non Profit Corporations In Kentucky.

Students

College of Law at Forefront of National Admissions Trends

by Carolyn M. Kennedy
Associate Dean and
Director of Admissions

Law school continues to increase in popularity as a professional option in the United States. For admission into the Fall 1991 entering classes, more than 94,000 people generated over 450,000 applications, another record number for the fourth consecutive year.

Nationally, the number of applications rose 11.5 percent over those for 1990. The rise in applications was smallest, 2.3% in the northeast and highest in the Midwest, west of the Mississippi, with 22.6%. Kentucky is considered Mid-South, a region in which the number of applications increased at a rate of 10.6% (just under the national average). However, the University of Kentucky's College of Law experienced a 15% increase in applications, well above the national average.

At UK, the increase in number of applications has been increasing dramatically over the past five years. In 1986, the College received applications from 622 individuals. In 1991, the number had grown to 1160 applications. An increase of 86%! Why the increase in interest? The Law School Admission Test experts summarize: "Law Services has no data to explain the reasons for continued application increases...." These same experts took the question to admission personnel at the nation's law schools and summarized their responses as "speculation," "the economy," "nothing better to do," "the continuing image of L.A.Law." As Director of Admission at UK, I feel there is no doubt that the economy, the image of money and fame are factors on the national scene as well as here in Kentucky. But UK exceeds those excesses. There is more at work here. I think we are getting the word out regarding the quality of education we provide. Half of our applicants this year were non-residents; these entering students represent graduates of some schools that were not represented in our student body in the last three years, for example; Vassar, Sweet Briar, Yale, University of Virginia, University of Georgia, and LSU. Many Kentucky residents who had gone out of state for undergraduate work, chose to return for law study here. In an effort to find the answer to the increased interest in UK on a national level, I asked the students themselves. I surveyed the Fall 1991 entering students. They mentioned cost, location and atmosphere but perhaps this response from a UK graduate sums up most of the facts: "Ivy League education at a bargain basement price."

As changes in the volume of applications occur, so do changes in the composition. While nationally the number of black applicants increased 14.9%, the increase at UK over the same period of time was 36%. Applicants are once again a bit younger, compared to the more mature student gain a few years ago. At UK this was reflected in a younger entering class, the median age being 22 with two people celebrating their 20th birthdays after entering. The gap between the number of male and female applicants continues to shrink nationally, the proportion being 58% male and 42% female. But again UK out-distances the national trend with its entering class being 52% male and 48% female.

1991 Graduation

One hundred and thirty-two UK law students became UK law graduates in 1991. Commencement Exercises were held May 4, 1991 at the Singletary Center For The Arts on the UK campus. Dean Rutheford Campbell presided over the procession of graduates. Professor John Garvey delivered the address on behalf of the faculty, Christopher Walther delivered the address on behalf of the students, and David Yewell '67 of Owensboro, Kentucky delivered the address on behalf of the bar. In addition to the conferring of Juris Doctor degrees, the traditional Faculty Cup Award went to Christopher Walther of Louisville, having been voted by the College of Law Faculty as the graduating student who had made largest overall contribution to the College of Law.

More About the Entering Class Fall 1991

The 1991 entering class consisted of 159 people and had the highest academic credentials ever. The average grade point average continued at 3.3, and the LSAT score climbing to an average of 38, the 80th percentile.

A record number of Black Americans applied. This year's total of completed applications was 42, which compares with 31 last year, and 19 each for 1988 and 1989. Of these 42 applicants, 18 were offered admission and 9 matriculated, seven Kentucky residents and two non-residents.

Entering students who hail from a state other than Kentucky, were spread over 128 states of the U.S.: Colorado, Connecticut, Florida (2), Georgia (3), Illinois (2), Indiana, Louisiana, Michigan (4), Missouri, North Carolina, New Jersey, New York, Ohio (7), South Carolina (2), Tennessee (3), Texas, Virginia (3), West Virginia (3). Twenty-seven percent (27%) of the entering students are graduates of the University of Kentucky (compared with 36% last year). The remaining 73% were graduated from 57 other schools. There were 43 entering students who had graduated from the University of Kentucky. The next most significant "feeder" schools were Centre with 12, Transylvania with 11, U of L and Miami University of Ohio with 6 each, Western Kentucky University and the University of Virginia with 5 each, followed by Bellarmine and Wake Forest with 4 each.

The academic disciplines of the entering students are again widely diverse. Political science and history majors are, unsurprisingly, the most popular, with 30 and 20 students respectively. New in popularity are English with 15, accounting, business and economics with 8, and finance and psychology with 7 each. Additionally, the class has speakers of Spanish and French, scholars of Russian studies, two environmental engineers, an electrical engineer, an artist and an art historian, several journalists and even a geographer.

Oh No, Not Again: A New LSAT Test

Yes, Virginia, these is a new test, again. The Law School Admission Test has changed in format, length and scoring. For those of us who remember the old 200 to 800 scale, we are somewhat relieved that the 10 to 48 scale has been abandoned.

The new LSAT is scored on a range of 120 to 180 and was administered for the first time in June. The range of scores were exactly as anticipated, so no future difficulty is expected. To help admissions personnel and the applicants in the transition, the percentiles will be furnished next to the score. For instance, under the old scale, a 38, UK's median score for admission, was in the 80th percentile this year.

Faculty

Richard C. Ausness, professor of law. APPOINTMENTS: Ashland Oil Professor of Law, 1991-92 academic year. PUBLICATIONS: "Unavoidably Unsafe Products and Strict Products Liability: What Liability Rule Should Be Applied to the Sellers of Pharmaceutical Products?", 78 Kentucky Law Journal 705-766 (1990). "Compensation For Smoking-Related Injuries: An Alternative to Strict Liability in Tort," 36 Wayne Law Review 1085-1148 (1990). AWARDS: 1990 Lowell T. Hughes Award for best faculty work published in Volume 78 of the Kentucky Law Journal.

Drusilla Vansant Bakert, associate dean. ELECTIONS: Chair, Southeastern law Placement Consortium, October 1990; Southeast Law Schools Representative, National Association for Law Placement (NALP) Nominations Committee, June 1991. APPOINTMENTS: Co-Chair, NALP Task Force on Contemporary Legal Issues, June 1990. PRESENTATIONS: 'Advising Our Students in Challenging Times," NALP Annual Meeting, Keystone, Colorado, June 1991.

Carolyn S. Bratt, professor of law. ELECTIONS: Chairperson, University of Kentucky Senate Council Ad Hoc Committee on the Status of Women at UK. APPOINTMENTS: W. L. Matthews Professorship for 1991-92 academic year. ACTIVITIES: Serving second year of three year term as faculty trustee, University of Kentucky Board of Trustees.

Rutheford B Campbell, dean. ACTIVITIES: Moderator, "Legal Ethics 1991" Statewide Satellite Broadcast, Office of Continuing Legal Education, University of Kentucky College of Law.

Todd B. Eberle, associate dean and director of continuing legal education. ELECTIONS: Elected Secretary and reelected as Member of Executive Committee, Association of Continuing Legal Education Administrators (ACLEA). APPOINTMENTS: Publications Committee, Kentucky Bar Association. Executive Committee, Section on Continuing Legal Education, Association of American Law Schools (AALS). PRESENTATIONS: "Fundamentals of Publishing", ACLEA Annual Meeting, Chicago, Illinois (August 1990). "Continuing Legal Education as a Component of Attorneys' Professional Responsibility," Laurel County Bar Association, London, Kentucky (April 1991). "Surviving in the Changing CLE Marketplace: Using Needs Assessment Surveys to Improve your Competitive Position," ACLEA Mid-Year Meeting Plenary Session, Atlanta, Georgia (August 1991).

William H. Fortune, associate dean for academic affairs (to July 31, 1991). On leave with Kentucky Department of Public Advocacy 1991-92 academic year. APPOINTMENTS: Kentucky General Assembly Task Force on Sentences and Sentencing Practices. Kentucky Bar Association Evidence Code Committee. PUBLICATIONS: Trial Ethics, 1991 Supplement, Underwood and Fortune, Little Brown & Co. (1988). "Rule 11 Update," Fayette County Bar News (Sept.-Oct. 1990). PRESENTATIONS: "Gaps in the Model Rules of Professional Conduct," Kentucky Defense Counsel June 1990. "Termination of Parental Rights," Kentucky Circuit Judges Conference 1991. "Legal Ethics 1991", panelist for four hour statewide satellite broadcast, Office of Continuing Legal Education, University of Kentucky, May 1991. "Maintaining Professional Ethical Standards In Collection or Defense of Collection Practice," Panelist, Office of Continuing Legal Education, University of Kentucky, June 1991. "Evidence Code," Kentucky Bar Association Annual Meeting, June 1991. ACTIVITIES: Sabbatical leave working with the Kentucky Department of Public Advocacy.

Eugene R. Gaetke, professor of law. APPOINTMENTS: Wendell Cherry Professor of Law for 1991-92 academic year. PUBLICATIONS: "Kentucky's New Rules of Professional Conduct for Lawyers," 78 Kentucky Law Journal 767 (1990). WORK IN PROGRESS: "Money laundering and Lawyers," an article examining the effect of federal money laundering laws on criminal defense lawyers' ethics and on criminal defendants' choice of counsel, co-authored with Professor Sarah N. Welling.

John H. Garvey, professor of law. ELECTIONS: Chair, Constitutional law Section, Association of American Law Schools. APPOINTMENTS: Ashland Oil Professor of Law, 1991-92 academic year. PUBLICATIONS: Books: Modern Constitutional Theory, Garvey & Aleinikoff, West Publishing Company, Second Edition (1991). "Freedom and Representation," in Kindred Matters, Meyers, Kipnis & Murphy, Cornell University Press (1991). Articles: "A Comment on Church and State in Seventeenth and Eighteenth Century America," 2 Journal of Law and Religion 301, 1990. "Churches and the Free Exercise of Religion," 4 Notre Dame Journal of Law, Ethics & Public Policy 701 (1990). PRESENTATIONS: "Religious Fundamentalism and Politics in the Middle East," Ohio State University, October 1991. "Hate Speech," Sixth Circuit Judicial Conference, Traverse City, Michigan, June 1991. Commencement Address, University of Kentucky College of Law, May 1991. "Men Only," Boston University Law School, April 1991. "The Education of Citizens," Drake University Law School, April 1991. "Flag Burning," U.S. Bicentennial Commission Forum, Lexington, Kentucky, March 1991. "Madison and Taxes on Religion," Annual James Madison Lecture, Madisonville, Kentucky, March 1991. WORK IN PROGRESS: A First Amendment Reader, Schauer & Garvey, West Publishing Company, forthcoming 1992. The Fundamentalism Project, sponsored by the American Academy of Arts & Sciences and the MacArthur Foundation.

Alvin L. Goldman, professor of law. APPOINTMENTS: Dorothy Salmon Professor of Law, 1991-92 academic year. PUBLICATIONS: Settling For More: Mastering Negotiating Strategies and Techniques, Alvin L. Goldman, BNA Books (1991).

M. Louise Graham, professor of law. APPOINTMENTS: Wilburt D. Ham Professor of Law, 1991-92 academic year. Kentucky Attorney General's Commission on Child Support Enforcement, 1991. Chair, Professional School Subcommittee, University of Kentucky Self Study Committee, 1991. Chair, University of Kentucky Senate Rules Committee, 1991. Hearing Officer, University of Kentucky Appeals Board, 1991. Advisory Committee, Children's Rights Law Journal, 1991. PUBLICATIONS: Kentucky Domestic Relations, 1990 Update, Co-Author with Hon. James E. Keller, Banks-Baldwin, 1990. PRESENTATIONS: "Emerging Issues in Reproductive Technology and The Law," Kentucky Circuit Judges Judicial College, October 1990. "Paternity and Child Support-Recent Kentucky Developments and Emerging Problems," Kentucky District Judges Judicial College., September 1990. "Child Support Guidelines," with Janet J. Crocker and H. Howell Brady, Kentucky Bar Association Annual Meeting, June 1990. 'Child Support Guidelines-Implementation In Kentucky," Kentucky Conference for Domestic Relations Commissioners, April 1990. WORK IN PROGRESS: Marital Property Law in the United States, Michie and Company. AWARDS: 5th Annual KIDS Award (Kentuckians Involved In Dependents' Support), Presented by Child Support Enforcement Workers, Cabinet for Human Resources, September 1990.

Wilburt D. Ham, professor of law emeritus. APPOINTMENTS: Visiting Professor of Law, University of Kentucky College of Law, Business Associations, Fall 1990.

Faculty

Michael P. Healy, assistant professor of law. PUBLICATIONS: "Direct Liability for Hazardous Waste Cleanups Under CERCLA: A Comprehensive Approach," 42 Case Western Reserve Law Review (forthcoming 1991-92)

Robert G. Lawson, professor of law. APPOINTMENTS: W. L. Matthews Professor of Law, 1991-92 academic year.

Thomas P. Lewis, professor of law. ELECTIONS: College of Law Executive Committee, 1990-91, reelected 1991-92. APPOINTMENTS: William T. Lafferty Professor of Law, 1991-92 academic year. Member, Constitutional Improvement Policy Council, Kentucky Center for Public Issues, 1991. PUBLICATIONS: Essay/critique responding to Alexander & Horton, "Whom Does the Constitution Command" Greenwood Press, 1988, in Constitutional Commentary, Summer 1991.

Martin J. McMahon, professor of law. ELECTIONS: Membership in American Law Institute. APPOINTMENTS: Visiting Hugh Culverhouse Eminent Scholar in Taxation University of Florida College of Law, Spring Term, 1991. Laramie L. Leatherman Professor of Law, 1991-92 academic year. PUBLICATIONS: Books: Federal Income Taxation of Business Organizations, with McDaniel, Ault & Simmons, Foundation Press (1991). Federal Income Taxation of Partnerships and S Corporations, with McDaniel, Ault & Simmons Foundation Press (1991). Book supplements: Federal Income Taxation of Individuals, Bittker and McMahon, Cumulative Supplements No. 1 and No. 2, Warren, Gorham & Lamont (1991). Federal Income Taxation of Business Organizations, with McDaniel, Ault & Simmons, Cumulative Supplements, Foundation Press (1991). Federal Income Taxation of Partnerships and S Corporations, with McDaniel, Ault & Simmons, Cumulative Supplement, Foundation Press (1991). Articles: "Reflections on the Regulations Process: 'Do The Regulations Have to Be Complex' or 'Is Hyperlexis the Manna of the Tax Bar?'," 51 Tax Notes 1441 (June 1991). "Developments in United States Domestic Taxation of Oil and Gas During 1990," 9 Oil & Gas Law & Taxation Review #2 (1991) (United Kingdom). "Significant Current Developments in Oil and Gas Taxation." Forty-Second Annual Institute on Oil and Gas Law and Taxation, Matthew Bender (1991). PRESENTATIONS: "Improving the Treasury Regulations Format," Internal Revenue Service Office of Chief Counsel, Petroleum Industry Group Speaker Series, Washington, D.C., May 1991. "Current Developments in Oil and Gas Taxation," Southwestern Legal Foundation, Forty-Second Annual Institute on Oil and Gas Law and Taxation, Dallas, Texas, February 1991. ACTIVITIES: Chair, ABA Tax Section Program on Current Developments, San Antonio, Texas, scheduled for February 1992. Member, ABA Tax Section, Continuing Legal Education Committee. Member, ABA Tax Section Committee on Corporate Tax, Section 351 Working Group. Member, ABA Tax Section, Committee on Teaching Taxation, Sections 67/68 Study Task Force. WORK IN PROGRESS: Fundamentals of Federal Income Taxation, with Rose and Simmons, West Publishing Company.

John M. Rogers, associate dean and professor of law. APPOINTMENTS: Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, for 1991-93. Brown, Todd & Heyburn Professor of Law, 1991-92 academic year. PUBLICATIONS: "International Human Rights Law and U.S. Law," chapter for Work Justice, edited by Gibney (1991). "'I Vote This Way Because I'm Wrong': The Supreme Court Justice as Epimenides," 79 Kentucky Law Journal 439 (1990-91). Book Review: four books on women in the military, 7 Constitutional Commentary 447 (1990). ACTIVITIES: Special Counsel, Impeachment Committee of the Kentucky House of Representatives, January-February 1991. AWARDS: UK College of Law Faculty Member Contributing Most To The Kentucky Law Journal 1990-91.

Robert G. Schwemm, professor of law. APPOINTMENTS; Wendell H. Ford Professor of Law, 1991-92 academic year. Special Attorney, Housing & Civil Enforcement Section, U.S. Department of Justice, Civil Rights Division, Washington, D.C., (July-Dec. 1991) PUBLICATIONS: Housing Discrimination: Law and Litigation Clark Boardman (1990); Cumulative Supplement (1991). PRESENTATIONS: "The State of Fair Housing Law-1991," John Marshall Law School, Chicago, Illinois, June 1991. Keynote Speaker, 12th Annual Connecticut Fair Housing Conference, April 1991. Moderator, Annual Conference of the National Fair Housing Alliance, Washington, D.C., September 1990.

David C. Short, professor of law and director of the Mineral Law Center. APPOINTMENTS: Executive Committee, Eastern Mineral Law Foundation. Chair, Scholarships and Grants Committee of Eastern Mineral Law Foundation from 1987-1991. Member, Coal Committee of Eastern Mineral Law Foundation. Moderator, Eastern Mineral Law Foundation Annual Institute, Nashville, Tennessee June 1991. Chair, Coal Committee, Section of Natural Resources, Energy and Environmental Law, American Bar Association. Vice-Chair, Natural Resources Committee, Section of Administrative Law and Regulatory Practice, American Bar Association. WORK IN PROGRESS: Managing Editor, Kentucky Mineral Law, Banks-Baldwin, Update (1992).

Thomas J. Stipanowich, professor of law. APPOINTMENTS: Member, Dispute Resolution Study Committee, Kentucky Bar Association. PRESENTATIONS: "Alternative Dispute Resolution in Kentucky," Kentucky Bar Association Kentucky Law Update, Lexington, Kentucky, September 1990. "Medical Staff Arbitration," Association of American Physicians and Surgeons Annual Meeting, Scottsdale, Arizona, September 1990. "Teaching Drafting in Innovative Contexts: Some Experimental Models and Team Teaching Possibilities," Legal Writing Institute Annual Meeting, Ann Arbor, Michigan, July 1990. "Arbitration of Commercial Disputes," Northern Kentucky Bar Association, Covington, Kentucky. June 1990. ACTIVITIES: Chair, Organizational Task Force, Fayette County Justice Center, mediation services center scheduled to open summer 1992. Advisor, ABA Task Force on Dispute Resolution. Survey author on alternative dispute resolution, ABA forum Committee on Construction Industry Dispute Resolution, December 1990. WORK IN PROGRESS: Treatise on commercial arbitration under the Federal Arbitration Act, with Macneil and Speidel, Northwestern University School of Law, Little, Brown& Co. (1991).

Richard H. Underwood, professor of law. APPOINTMENTS: Spears-Gilbert Professor of Law, 1991-92 academic year. Reappointed as Chair, Ethics and Unauthorized Practice of Law Committee, Kentucky Bar Association, 1991-92. Executive Committee, Henry Clay Inns of Court, Lexington, Kentucky, 1991. PUBLICATIONS: Trial Ethics, 1991 Supplement, Underwood and Fortune, Little, Brown & Co. (1988). Chapter author, Professional and Practice Development, Wilson and Polk editors (1990). PRESENTATIONS: Panelist, "Legal Ethics 1991," University of Kentucky College of Law Continuing Legal Education Statewide Satellite Broadcast, May 1991. Presenter, Eastern Mineral Law Foundation Annual Meeting, 1991. Panelist, 16th Annual Mineral Law Seminar, University of Kentucky College of Law Mineral Law Center, Lexington, Kentucky, October 1991, Presenter, Tennessee Valley Public Power Association Meeting, Nashville, Tennessee, February 1991. Legal Ethics Presentation, Kentucky Commonwealth Attorney's Conference, Louisville, Kentucky December 1990. Panelist, 15th Annual Mineral Law Seminar, University of Kentucky College of Law Mineral Law Center, Lexington Kentucky, October 1990.

WORK IN PROGRESS: "Confessions of an Ethics Chairman," for publication fall 1991.

Harold R. Weinberg, professor of law. APPOINTMENTS: Wyatt, Tarrant & Combs Professor of Law, 1991-92 academic year. Member, American Bar Association Uniform Commercial Code Article 1 Review Task Force. PUBLICATIONS: "Easing Transfer and Security Interest Transactions in Intellectual Property: An Agenda for Reform," 79 Kentucky Law Journal 61 (1990-91) (coauthored with W. J. Woodward, Temple University School of Law). PRESENTATIONS: "Security Interests In Tort Claims," University of Kentucky College of Law Randall-Park Faculty Colloquium, Fall 1990. ACTIVITIES: Member, Article 9 Study Project established by Permanent Editorial Board for the Uniform Commercial Code. Member, American Bar Association Intellectual Property Financing Task Force. Meetings of ABA Business Law Section's Uniform Commercial Code Technology and Intellectual Property Committee including subcommittee and task forces, Williamsburg, Virginia, March 1991 and Chicago, Illinois, August 1990. WORK IN PROGRESS: "Adding Commercial Fundamentals, Terms and Transactions to Contract and Commercial Law," review/essay to be published in the Wayne Law Review. Article with working title "Copyrights, Congress and the Code" (coauthored with W. J. Woodward, Temple University School of Law). Chapter on intellectual property financing to be published in Bender's Uniform Commercial Code Service, a multivolume treatise. AWARDS: 1991 Charles S. Cassis Award for best work by a faculty author in Kentucky Law Journal.

Sarah N. Welling, alumni professor of law. ELECTIONS: Chair-Elect, Criminal Justice Section, Association of American Law Schools. PUBLICATIONS: "Rules Modify BSA Definition of 'Financial Institution'," Money Laundering Alert, July 1991. "'Transaction' Law Dangerous To Many," Money Laundering Alert, May 1991. "Double Jeopardy: Arizona v. Fulminante," Update, Spring 1991. "Money Laundering Update: Sentencing and Successor Criminal Liability," Fayette County Bar Journal, Jan.-Feb. 1991. "When Elected Officials Solicit Money, Is It Extortion or a Campaign Contribution?," Preview of United States Supreme Court Cases, February 1991. "Sentencing Guidelines for Laundering Tough," Money Laundering Alert, December 1990. "Competitive Impact, Cost of New Regs Questioned," Money Laundering Alert, October 1990. "Constitutional Rights and Drunk Driving," Update, Fall 1990. "Court Weakens 'Innocent Owner' Forfeiture Defense," Money Laundering Alert, August 1990. "'Remember the Alamo'—A Warning for Bank Buyers," Money Laundering Alert, July 1990. PRESENTATIONS: Panelist, "Representing Criminal Defendants in the New Age: Setting, Collecting, and Retaining Attorneys' Fees," ABA Annual Meeting, Atlanta, Georgia, August 1991; Panelist, "Multiple and Consecutive Representation and Related Criminal Matters," Federal Bar Association Seminar, Louisville, Kentucky, June 1991; "Bank Secrecy Act Compliance for Non-Bank Financial Institutions," Money Transmitter Regulators Association, San Francisco, California, May 1991; "Bank Secrecy Act Compliance and Money Laundering Controls," Center for Banking and Financial Institutions, Florida International University, Miami, Florida, April 1991; "Money Laundering Laws: A Growing Concern for Financial Institutions Counsel," University of Kentucky Office of Continuing Legal Education Seminar, Lexington, Kentucky, March 1991; "Bank Secrecy Act Compliance Update: The Anti-structuring Laws," Money Laundering Enforcement Conference, American Bankers Association and American Bar Association Criminal Justice Section, Washington, D.C., September 1990; Panelist, "The Money Laundering Laws," produced in Atlanta by Bankers Television Network, broadcast August, 1990. ACTIVITIES: Wrote and published two newsletters for the American Association of Law Schools Criminal Justice Section, May and December, 1990. WORK IN PROGRESS: "Money Laundering and Lawyers," article on money laudering laws' impact on criminal defense lawyers (with Professor Eugene Gaetke). Civil and criminal forfeiture chapter in A Practical Manual for Financial Institutions," ABA Money Laundering Subcommittee, to be published by American Bar Association.

Donald A. Winslow, associate professor of law. APPOINTMENTS: Returned to University of Kentucky College of Law as Associate Professor from leave during 1990-91 academic year to serve as Visiting Associate Professor at Cornell law School, Ithaca, New York. Market Advisory Board, Shepard's/McGraw-Hill Inc. PUBLICATIONS: "A Note on Retrospectively Rated Insurance and Federal Income Taxation," 79 Kentucky Law Journal 195 (1991); "Tax Penalties: They Shoot Dogs, Don't They?'" 43 Florida Law Review No. 5 (1991). "Tax Avoidance and the Definition of Insurance: The Continuing Examination of Captive Insurance Companies," 40 Case Western Reserve Law Review 79 (1989) selected for reprinting in volume 4 of the National Insurance Law Review. "The New York Stock Exchange and Its Specialist System: Can the Decline of America's Predominant Market Be Traced to Its Core Trading Mechanism?" (with D. C. Oesterle and S. C. Anderson) (submitted to law reviews for publication). PRESENTATIONS: "Reflections on the Cornell Law School" Cornell Law Association—Syracuse, New York, November 1990 and Buffalo, New York, May 1991. ACTIVITIES: Member, Committee on Corporate Tax, ABA Section of Taxation. WORK IN PROGRESS: Cases and Materials on Business Planning, West Publishing Co. scheduled for publication in 1993 (with P. T. Morgan and R. B. Smith); "Churning and Suitability" (with S. C. Anderson); "Insider Trading" (with D. C. Oesterle).

Class Actions

1937

Bert Combs, partner in the law firm of Wyatt, Tarrant & Combs, was named one of the 100 most influential lawyers in America by the National Law Journal, the only Kentuckian to be so honored. He is a former Governor of Kentucky and Judge of the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals.

1941

Michael A. Rowady, Winchester attorney for more than 50 years, was honored with a dinner in June by the members of the Clark County Bar Association at the Winchester Country Club.

1948

Rowan Circuit Court Judge Caswell Lane of Mount Sterling received the Kentucky Bar Center Award at the annual KBA meeting in June. The award is given to an individual who provides special personal, professional and financial support to the association. He has also served as president of the Kentucky Judges Association and is currently chair of the Kentucky Board of Bar Examiners.

1950

Arloe Mayne, retired officer and former general counsel of Ashland Oil Inc.'s law department, died after a long illness. He served for eight years as director of the law school's alumni association and received the law school's alumni association Recognition of Merit Award.

1951

Frank Benton II of Benton, Benton & Luedeke in Newport was co-recipient of the Outstanding Lawyer Award by the Kentucky Bar Association at its annual meeting in June, 1991.

Thomas B. Spain, former judge of the Hopkins Circuit Court, was sworn in as Justice of the Supreme Court of Kentucky on January 7, 1991.

1954

George B. Simpson of Sturgis, Kentucky, recently published a book concerning Abraham Lincoln and the 1840 Whig presidential campaign.

Gardner Turner of Ogden, Sturgill & Welch was co-recipient of the Outstanding Lawyer Award by the Kentucky Bar Association at its annual meeting in June, 1991.

1955

Judge Joe Lee, Bankruptcy Judge for the Eastern District of Kentucky, was named Outstanding Judge by the Kentucky Bar Association at its annual meeting in June. He has been a judge for more than 30 years and has received numerous awards for his service.

1959

Carroll M. Redford, Jr., was awarded the Carroll M. Redford Award at the annual meeting of the Kentucky Commonwealth Attorneys Association in Louisville on December 7, 1990. The award, honoring the late Judge Carroll M. Redford, father of the recipient, has been presented annually to the outstanding Commonwealth Attorney in the state since it was instituted by the association in 1991. In addition, Mr. Redford was elected President of the Kentucky Bar Foundation for 1991-92.

1960

Charles English, partner in the firm of English, Lucas, Preist & Owsley in Bowling Green, has been named Regional Vice Chair by the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce.

Kenneth N. Ragland, formerly of Calhoun, has announced that he is now licensed to practice in New Jersey and will practice with the firm of Finamore, Nussbaum & Ragland, in Pompton Plain, NJ. He remains of counsel to the law firm of Constance E. Revlett in Calhoun, Ky.

1961

J.B. Johnson, Jr. of Williamsburg, Kentucky, has been named to the Kentucky Bar Association's Board of Governors. He serves as a United States Magistrate and is in private law practice.

Boyd F. Taylor has formed the law firm of Taylor, Keller & Dunaway, with offices in London, Kentucky.

1962

Peter Perlman was recently elected to the Board of Governors of the Kentucky Academy of Trial Lawyers.

1964

James Crayton Clay has become a partner in the firm of Landrum & Shouse in Lexington, Kentucky.

David Enlow has been elected to serve on the board of directors of the Kentucky Academy of Hospital Attorneys.

1965

Barry Benton, of the Fayette County Attorney's Office, is the author of the chapter on Enforcement of Support and Domestic Relations Orders in the UK/CLE Practice Handbook on Debtor/Creditor Relations in Kentucky(1991).

Cecil F. Dunn has become a partner in the firm of Landrum & Shouse in Lexington, Kentucky.

Alan Peck, partner in the Mt. Sterling law firm of White, Peck and Carrington, has been elected to the House of Delegates of the Kentucky Bar Association. He will represent attorneys in the 21st Judicial District.

Paul K. Turner and Stephen E. Underwood have announced the formation of the law firm of Turner & Underwood, with offices in Hopkinsville, Kentucky.

1966

Joseph Burch has been appointed Vice President for University Relations by UK President Charles T. Wethington in May. He will be the University's chief financial officer and will act on behalf of the President in his absence.

Donald Clapp was named University of Kentucky Vice President for Administration in May, 1991.

1967

J. Larry Cashen of the law firm of Wyatt, Tarrant & Combs authored the chapter on "Nonprofit Hospital Joint Ventures: Organizational and Related Legal Issues," in the UK/CLE Practice Handbook Kentucky Health Law (1991).

Robert Caummisar was recently the subject of an extensive article in the Daily Independent of Ashland, Kentucky. Mr. Caummisar was singled out for his work with numerous charitable and civic organizations.

F. Chris Gorman was elected Attorney General of the state of Kentucky in November 1991.

George C. Piper has formed the firm of Piper, Wellman & Bowers in Lexington, Kentucky, with Dean T. Wellman '80 and Barbara Bowers, '83.

Class Actions

Alec G. Stone has been elected president of the Meade County Bar Association, Brandenburg, Kentucky.

1968

Steven L. Beshear was recently appointed Executive Partner in charge of the Lexington, Kentucky, office of the firm of Stites & Harbison. Mr. Beshear formerly served as Attorney General and Lieutenant Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Joe Bill Campbell of Bowling Green, Kentucky, was elected President-Elect of the Kentucky Bar Association at its annual meeting in June, 1991. Mr. Campbell has served as President of the Board of Regents of Western Kentucky University and is President of the state Council on Higher Education.

1969

Kathleen Lackey of Richmond, Kentucky, campaigned this fall for a seat on the Kentucky Court of Appeals. She is engaged in the private practice of law in Richmond, Kentucky, and has served as President of the Kentucky Bar Association's long-range planning committee. and presently serves on the Lawyer Discipline Task Force.

Joseph Miller, a senior partner with Gess, Mattingly & Atchison has been given the Central Kentucky Legal Services first Distinguished Service Award. Miller has served on the agency's Board of Directors since 1979 and has acted as chair and vice chair.

1970

Aubrey C. Brown, District Counsel for the Internal Revenue Service, is the author of a chapter on "Federal Tax Liens" in UK/CLE's Practice Handbook Debtor/Creditor Relations in Kentucky (1991).

Alan 0. Bryant of Louisville, Kentucky has been named regional division manager for Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina for Commonwealth Land Title Insurance Company.

Richard I. Fleischer has announced the opening of an office in Brussels, Belgium for the practice of U.S. Immigration Law. He has also recently lectured on U.S. immigration law before the Rotary Club of Keerbergan Demer-Dijle in Belgium.

Thomas B. Russell, partner in the Paducah, Kentucky, firm of Whitlow, Roberts, Houston & Russell, was elected 1991-92 President of the Kentucky Bar Association. Mr. Russell pledged to emphasize the role of the KBA in helping lawyers serve the public.

Kenton District Judge Wilfrid Schroder was appointed by Governor Wallace Wilkinson to a vacancy on the Kentucky Court of Appeals in June, replacing the late Judy West. He ran unopposed for the Sixth Appellate District seat in November, 1991.

Thomas E. Turner of Madisonville, Kentucky, recently was elected Secretary-Treasurer of the Kentucky Bar Foundation for 1991-92.

1971

Judge Stan Billingsley, District Court Judge in Carroll, Owen and Grant counties of Kentucky since 1984, recently authored a Small Claims Court Handbook.

Louis DeFalaise, U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky for almost ten years, has accepted a job with the U.S. Justice Department in Washington as counsel in the executive office of United States Attorneys.

Edward S. Gilson recently opened the partnership of Olin, Hunter & Gilson with Walter Olin '75 and Barbara Hunter '78 in Lexington, Kentucky.

John G. Prather, Jr. of Somerset, Kentucky, was elected Vice President of the Kentucky Bar Association at its annual convention. He is a senior partner in the Law Offices of John G. Prather. He has also served as president of the Kentucky Council of School Board Attorneys and belongs to the National Council of School Board Attorneys.

Bruce M. Reynolds of the law firm of Stites & Harbison, Lexington, Kentucky, recently authored the chapter on Planning for Partnership Disputes for the UK/CLE Practice Handbook Kentucky Partnership Law (1991).

William T. Robinson, III, managing partner of the Northern Kentucky/Greater Cincinnati office of the law firm of Greenebaum Doll & McDonald, recently received the Walter R. Dunlevy Frontiersman Award. Mr. Robinson has also been named Chair of the Board of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce.

Sheryl Snyder, former president of the Kentucky Bar Association recently became Chair of the Board of the Kentucky Center for Public Issues. He formerly served as a partner in the firm of Wyatt, Tarrant & Combs in Louisville and is currently General Counsel for ICH Corporation, Louisville, Kentucky.

1972

Ben S. Fletcher III of Hopkinsville, Kentucky has been elected to the Board of Directors of Sovran Bank of Kentucky. He is a partner in the newly formed law firm of Fletcher, Cotthoff and Willen and a member of the Kentucky Bar Association House of Delegates.

William E. Davis, a former director of Kentucky's Administrative Office of the Courts and director of California's Administrative Office of the Courts since 1987, recently announced his resignation to concentrate on a leadership position on the National Spiritual Assembly of Bahai.

Jimmy Martin Hammond of Floyd County, Kentucky was unanimously elected an official of the Kentucky County Attorneys Association by his fellow county attorneys from throughout the state at the organization's 1991 annual meeting in Lexington, Kentucky. Mr. Hammond will serve successive terms as secretary, vice-president, president-elect, and president.

Michael W. Hawkins, partner with the law firm of Dinsmore & Shohl, Cincinnati, Ohio , has been appointed to serve on the State of Ohio Operations Improvement Task Force.

R. Burl McCoy of Lexington, Kentucky, was recently elected to the Board of Governors of the Kentucky Academy of Trial Attorneys.

Thomas C. Osborne, McCracken County Kentucky Commonwealth Attorney, was recently named to the Board of Regents of Murray State University.

John W. Stevenson of Owensboro, Kentucky, was recently elected to the Board of Directors of the Kentucky Bar Association.

1973

Merle C. Clark of Danville, Kentucky, has been elected Secretary-Treasurer of the Boyle County Bar Association.

Class Actions

1975

Samuel E. Davies of Barbourville, Kentucky, was recently elected to the Board of Governors of the Kentucky Academy of Trial Attorneys. He is certified as a civil trial advocate by the National Board of Trial Advocacy and engages in the private practice of law in Barbourville and Corbin, Kentucky.

Edward D. Hays of Danville, Kentucky, has been elected President of the Boyle County Bar Association.

John T. McGarvey served as anchor for Kentucky Educational Television's All Evening Election Night Coverage of the 1991 Kentucky primary and general elections. Mr. McGarvey is also the author of a chapter on "Prejudgment Remedies" in the UK/CLE Practice Handbook, Debtor/Creditor Relations in Kentucky (1991).

Michael A. Stidham and Clyde L. Simmons recently formed the firm of Stidham, Simmons and Calvert with Stephen L. Calvert. The firm's offices are in Jackson, Kentucky.

1974

Gerald F. Dusing, partner in the firm of Adams, Brooking, Stepner, Woltermann & Dusing, Covington, Kentucky, has been appointed by the Kentucky Supreme Court as chair of the Continuing Legal Education Commission of the Kentucky Bar Association.

Robert Elliott of Lexington, Kentucky, is co-author of a chapter on "Medical Malpractice" for UK/CLE's Practice Handbook Kentucky Health Law published in June 1991.

Frank H. McCartney of Suit, McCartney & Price in Flemingsburg, Kentucky, authored the chapter on "Problems Faced by Governmental and Rural Hospitals" for UK/CLE's Practice Handbook Kentucky Health Law, published in June, 1991.

Stephen Milner was named by Governor Wallace Wilkinson to fill an interim vacancy on the Fayette Circuit Court, Lexington, Kentucky.

Pamela H. Potter of Ashland, Kentucky, is the author of the chapter on "Death and Care of the Dying" in UK/CLE's Practice Handbook, Kentucky Health Law, published in June, 1991.

Stephen E. Underwood and Paul K. Turner have announced the formation of the law firm of Turner & Underwood, with offices in Hopkinsville, Kentucky.

William Garmer of Lexington, Kentucky, has been named Secretary of the Kentucky Academy of Trial Attorneys. Mr. Garmer is also co-author of a chapter on "Medical Malpractice" for UK/CLE's Practice Handbook on Kentucky Health Law, published in June, 1991.

R. David Lester of Stoll, Keenon & Park, Lexington, Kentucky, recently authored the chapter on "Partnership Operations" for the UK/CLE Practice Handbook Kentucky Partnership Law (1991).

Walter Olin recently opened the partnership of Olin, Hunter & Gilson with Barbara Ann Hunter, '78 and Edward S. Gilson, '71 in Lexington, Kentucky.

William Reed of Lexington, Kentucky, is the author of a chapter on "Collecting from Military Personnel and Other Specially Situated Defendants" for UK/CLE's Practice Handbook, Debtor/Creditor Relations in Kentucky (1991.

J. Randall Reinhardt of Bulleit, Kinkead, Irvin & Reinhardt in Lexington, Kentucky, was recently the subject of an article in the Bowling Green, Kentucky, Daily News. Mr. Reinhardt is Kentucky's leading acrobatic airplane pilot as well as the 1989 winner of the International Aerobatic Club President's Award.

1976

Rosemary F. Center has been named Assistant Attorney General in the Civil and Environmental Division of the Kentucky Attorney General's Office, Frankfort, Kentucky.

Marsha Ridings of London, Kentucky, was recently elected to the Board of Directors of the newly formed Kentucky Bar Association for Women.

Larry F. Sword, of Somerset, Kentucky, was recently elected to the Board of Governors of the Kentucky Academy of Trial Attorneys.

1977

Joseph Conley, Jr. of the law firm of Dinsmore & Shohl in Florence, Kentucky, was elected Secretary of the Civil Litigation Section of the Kentucky Bar Association. In addition, Mr. Conley was named in June 1991 to be one of two special prosecutors in an investigation of campaign contributions in Kentucky. He also serves as Lecturer-on-Law at the University of Cincinnati Law School and as Adjunct Professor at Salmon P. Chase College of Law, Northern Kentucky University.

Michael Flowers has been promoted to Chief Counsel of The Midland Company in Cincinnati.

Gatewood Galbraith, was a candidate in the primary election for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Kentucky. He has now reopened his law practice in Lexington, Kentucky.

Walter Morris, Jr. has been named a partner in the law firm of Gess Mattingly & Atchison in Lexington, Kentucky.

Foster Ockerman, Jr. of the Lexington, Kentucky, law firm of Martin, Ockerman & Brabant has been named Vice Chair and President-Elect of the Real Estate Practice section of the Kentucky Bar Association.

Paula M. Raines has completed her Ph.D. in Psychology and has opened a law office with W. Stokes Harris in Lexington, Kentucky.

Barbara Sutherland has joined the Kentucky Department of Public Advocacy's Administrative Division as Law Librarian.

1978

Janet A. Craig of Stites & Harbison in Lexington, Kentucky, recently authored the chapter on "Hospital/Medical Staff Issues" for UK/CLE's Practice Handbook, Kentucky Health Law, published in June, 1991.

James W. Gardner, partner in the Lexington, Kentucky, firm of Henry, Watz, Gardner & Sellars, was the subject of a lengthy profile in the Lexington Herald-Leader. The article focussed on Mr. Gardner's work in international law and business and his duties as President of the Bluegrass International Trade Association. Mr. Gardner formerly practiced with Central Kentucky Legal Services and served as a Member of the Lexington-Fayette Urban County Council from 1981-85. He chaired the Lexington Mayor's Task Force on the Homeless fom 1983-88.

Alex P. Harrington has joined the Louisville office of Stites & Harbison law firm, where his responsibilities will include state and municipal finance, securities and acquisition matters.

Kevin Henry of Lexington, Kentucky, was recently elected to the Board of Governors of the Kentucky Academy of Trial Attorneys.

Barbara Ann Hunter recently opened the partnership of Olin, Hunter & Gilson with Walter Olin, '75 and Edward S. Gilson, '71 in Lexington, Kentucky.

Class Actions

A. George Mason, Jr. was recently promoted to the position of Vice President and General Counsel of Equitable Resources Exploration, a division of Equitable Resources Energy Company, in Kingsport, Tennessee. The company conducts oil and gas exploration and development in Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee.

Harry D. Rankin recently joined the firm of Greenebaum Doll & McDonald in its Northern Kentucky/Greater Cincinnati office in Covington, Kentucky.

Pam Robinette of Pikeville, Kentucky, has been elected to serve on the Board of Directors of the Kentucky Academy of Hospital Attorneys. In addition, she is the author of the chapter on "Informed Consent" in UK/CLE's Practice Handbook Kentucky Health Law, published in June, 1991.

John S. Sawyer of Greenebaum Doll & McDonald in Lexington, Kentucky, is co-author of a chapter on "Bankruptcy and Related Solvency Issues" for UK/CLE's Practice Handbook Debtor/Creditor Relations in Kentucky (1991).

Robert B. Vice of Hirn, Reed, Harper & Eisinger recently co-authored the chapter on "Formation of General and Limited Partnerships" with David W. Harper for the UK/CLE Practice Handbook, Kentucky Partnership Law (1991).

1979

Lester I. Adams, Jr. has become an associate in the firm of Greenebaum Boone Treitz Maggiolo & Brown, in Louisville, Kentucky.

Marie Alagia Cull of Alagia, Day, Marshall, Mintmire & Chauvin in Frankfort, Kentucky, authored the chapter providing an "Overview of the Laws Governing Long-Term Care in Kentucky" for UK/CLE's Practice Handbook, Kentucky Health Law, published in June, 1991.

David A. Franklin has become a partner in the firm of Landrum & Shouse in Lexington, Kentucky.

Robert W. Kellerman of Frankfort, Kentucky, recently became President-Elect of the Kentucky Bar Foundation.

Robert A. Miller has been elected vice-president of the Meade County Bar Association, Brandenburg, Kentucky.

Maria Ransdell of Lexington, Kentucky, has been elected president of The Kentucky Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers.

1980

David Andrews of Lexington, Kentucky, has been elected to the Board of Governors of the Kentucky Academy of Trial Attorneys.

R. Thomas Carter of Goldberg & Simpson in Louisville, Kentucky, authored the chapter on "Medicare Fraud and Abuse and Reimbursement Issues" for UK/CLE's Practice Handbook, Kentucky Health Law, published in June, 1991.

Patterson DeCamp has become a shareholder in the firm of Kincaid, Wilson, Schaeffer, Hembree, Van Inwegen & Kinser, Lexington, Kentucky.

Thomas K. Herren has joined with Thomas H. Glover '82 and Charles C. Adams, Jr. to form Glover, Herren & Adams, with offices in Lexington, Kentucky. Mr. Herren has also been elected to the Board of Governors of the Kentucky Academy of Trial Attorneys.

John Hinkel of Fowler, Measle & Bell in Lexington, Kentucky, is co-author of a chapter on "Handling the Collections Case" in UK/CLE's Practice Handbook Debtor/Creditor Relations in Kentucky (1991).

John 0. Morgan of Kincaid, Wilson, Schaeffer, Hembree, VanInwegen & Kinser, Lexington, Kentucky, is the author of a chapter on "Secured Transactions and UCC Concerns" in UK/CLE's forthcoming Practice Handbook Debtor/Creditor Relations in Kentucky (1991).

Mark R. Overstreet of Stites & Harbison in Frankfort, Kentucky, is the author of the chapter on "Legal Bases for Remedies Under Kentucky Law" in UK/CLE's Practice Handbook Debtor/Creditor Relations in Kentucky (1991).

Penny Travelsted of Bowling Green, Kentucky, was recently elected Secretary of the newly formed Kentucky Bar Association for Women.

Robert R. Saelinger has been named a partner with the firm of Graydon, Head & Ritchey, with offices in Cincinnati, Ohio, and Florence, Kentucky. He practices in the areas of employee benefits, executive compensation and general taxation law and is in charge of the firm's Kentucky office. He is admitted to practice in both Ohio and Kentucky.

Carl J. Stich, Jr., partner in the Cincinnati-based firm of Dinsmore & Shohl, was named one of two special prosecutors in an investigation of campaign contributions in Kentucky.

Dean T. Wellman has joined with George C. Piper '67 and Barbara Bowers '83 to form the law firm of Piper, Wellman & Bowers. The firm has offices in Lexington, Kentucky.

1981

Winifred Bryant has become a partner in the Lexington, Kentucky, firm of Gess, Mattingly & Atchison.

Karen Caldwell of Lexington, Kentucky, was recently confirmed to succeed Louis DeFalaise as United States Attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky.

Martha Copeland of Corbin, Kentucky, has been elected vice-president of the newly formed Kentucky Bar Association for Women. She is a partner in the law firm of Freeman and Copeland.

Thomas Hellmann has been named Assistant Attorney General in the Civil and Environmental Division of the Kentucky Attorney General's Office.

Bruce Orwin received an outstanding volunteer commendation award from the Kentucky Chapter of The Nature Conservancy in May for his pro bono legal services in land acquisition for the Conservancy, a private, international non-profit conservation organization. Orwin practices law with the firm of John G. Prather in Somerset, Kentucky.

Jane I. Tudor has been named a partner in the Louisville, Kentucky, office of Greenebaum Doll & McDonald, where she will concentrate her practice in environmental law.

1982

Bill Adams of Louisville, Kentucky has joined the Jefferson County Kentucky Commonwealth's Attorney office as an assistant Commonwealth Attorney.

Michael V. Brodarick has become a member of the firm of Lloyd & McDaniel, in Louisville, Kentucky.

Benjamin Cowgill, Jr. has become a partner in the firm of Landrum & Shouse in Lexington, Kentucky.

Class Actions

John Geary Deeb, former Assistant Commonwealth Attorney for Warren County, Kentucky, has joined with C. Thomas Poole '75 and Phillip L. Kimbel to form the firm of Poole, Kimbel & Deeb in Bowling Green, Kentucky.

Thomas H. Glover has joined with Thomas K. Herren '80 and Charles C. Adams, Jr. to form Glover, Herren & Adams in Lexington, Kentucky.

John R. Grise of Campbell, Kerrick & Grise in Bowling Green recently co-authored the chapter on "Marketing and Advertising Health Care Services" for UK/CLE's Practice Handbook Kentucky Health Law, published in June, 1991.

Sarah Jackson has become a member of the law firm of McBrayer, McGinnis, Leslie & Kirkland and will practice in the firm's Frankfort, Kentucky office.

John G. McNeill has become a partner in the firm of Landrum & Shouse in Lexington, Kentucky.

John C. Merchant has joined the Cincinnati, Ohio, law firm of Peck, Shaffer & Williams as an associate. He formerly served as staff attorney for the Commonwealth of Kentucky Finance Administration Cabinet in the Office of Legal and Legislative Services.

Candace Shaughnessy of Wyatt, Tarrant & Combs in Louisville, Kentucky, has been elected to serve on the Board of Directors of the Kentucky Academy of Hospital Attorneys.

Michael Troutman has become a partner in the Lexington, Kentucky, firm of Fowler, Measle & Bell. Troutman is also the author of a chapter on "Federal Tax Liens" in UK/CLE's Practice Handbook Debtor/Creditor Relations in Kentucky (1991).

1983

T. Bruce Bell has become a partner in the Lexington, Kentucky firm of Fowler, Measle & Bell.

Barbara J. Bowers has joined with George C. Piper '67 and Dean T. Wellman '80 to form the law firm of Piper, Wellman & Bowers in Lexington, Kentucky.

Elizabeth Feamster has become a partner in the Lexington, Kentucky, firm of Fowler, Measle & Bell.

James E. Hargrove, a founding member of the Lexington, Kentucky, firm of Newberry, Hargrove & Rambicure, has been named to the board of directors of the Baptist Hospitals Foundation, which is based in Louisville, Kentucky. Hargrove is also the author of a chapter on "Collecting From Decedents' Estates" in UK/CLE's forthcoming Practice Handbook, Debtor/Creditor Relations in Kentucky (1991).

David Kramer of Deters, Benzinger & LaVelle in Covington, Kentucky, recently co-authored the chapter on "Federal Antitrust Law in the Health Care Field" for UK/CLE's Practice Handbook Kentucky Health Law, published in June, 1991.

James M. Mooney has joined with Eugene F. Mooney '86 and Matthew L. Mooney to form the law firm of Mooney, Mooney & Mooney in Lexington, Kentucky. The firm will engage in general trial and appellate practice.

Keith Moorman has become a member of the law firm of Brown, Todd & Heyburn. He will continue his practice in the areas of products liability, environmental law and general litigation in the firm's Lexington, Kentucky office.

Michael D. Risley has been elected to partnership in the law firm of Stites & Harbison, in Louisville, Kentucky.

Richard M. Wehrle has become a member of the Lexington, Kentucky, firm of Vimont & Wills. He will continue his practice in the areas of estate planning, tax, real estate, and corporate and business planning.

1984

Russell J. Baldani was the subject of a lengthy profile in the Lexington Herald-Leader in the spring. The article noted Mr. Baldani's defense of several defendants in capital cases. Mr. Baldani formerly practiced with Fayette County Legal Aid and the Department of Public Advocacy and is now in private practice with the firm of Summers, Baldani, Rowland and Richardson, in Lexington, Kentucky.

Amye Bensenhaver Majors has joined the staff of the Kentucky Attorney General's Office as an Assistant Attorney General.

Perry Bentley has become a partner in the Lexington, Kentucky, firm of Stoll, Keenon & Park.

W. Bradford Boone has become associated with the firm of Stites & Harbison in Lexington, Kentucky. He will practice tax law in the firm's corporate section.

Brian C. Gardner has become a member of the firm of Newberry, Hargrove & Rambicure in Lexington, Kentucky. Gardner was also recently elected to the Board of Directors of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce.

William Green, Associate Professor of Government at Morehead State University has published an article in the Urban Lawyer entitled "State Constitutions, Industrial Recruitment Incentives, and Japanese Automobile Investment in Mid-America." He also co-edited with UK Political Science Professor Ernest Yanarella, The Politics of Industrial Recruitment: Japanese Automobile Investment and Economic Development in the American States, published by Greenwood Press.

Brian L. Haynes announces that his firm's name has been changed to Meyer, Hutchinson, McKinley & Haynes in Owensboro, Kentucky.

Susan J. Hoffman of Greenebaum Doll & McDonald in Lexington, Kentucky, is co-author of a chapter on Bankruptcy and Related Solvency Issues for UK/CLE's Practice Handbook Debtor/Creditor Relations in Kentucky (1991).

Warren J. Hoffman has become a member of the firm of Brown Todd & Heyburn. He will continue his practice in the areas of corporate and commercial law in the firm's Lexington, Kentucky office.

Randall A. Hutchens has become associated with the Overbey Law Firm in Murray, Kentucky.

J. Clarke Keller has been elected to partnership in the firm of Stites & Harbison in Lexington, Kentucky.

Dan Rose has become a partner in the Lexington, Kentucky, firm of Stoll, Keenon & Park.

Randy Shaw has been named a partner in the Louisville, Kentucky office of Morgan & Pottinger. He concentrates his practice in the areas of commercial litigation and is involved in loan restructuring, foreclosure, bankruptcy and environmental law.

J. Guthrie True has become a partner in the Lexington, Kentucky, firm of Stoll, Keenon & Park.

Class Actions

1985

Patrick Fulton has become an associate in the Lexington, Kentucky office of the firm of Ferreri & Fogle.

Allen Montgomery of Louisville, Kentucky, has been elected to serve on the Board of Directors of the Kentucky Academy of Hospital Attorneys.

Sharon Morris has become a member of the firm of Gess, Mattingly & Atchison in Lexington, Kentucky.

Kent Tyler Young has joined the staff of the Kentucky Attorney General's Office as an Assistant Attorney General. He previously served as an attorney with the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet.

1986

Albert "Ben" Chandler was elected Auditor of the state of Kentucky in November 1991.

Whitney Dunlap, II has become a member of the firm of Burnam & Thompson, in Richmond, Kentucky.

Laurel L. F. Garrett has become a partner in the Lexington, Kentucky, firm of Henry, Watz, Gardner & Sellars. She will continue to practice in the areas of corporate, securities, and health care law.

Janie C. McKenzie has been admitted to partnership in the Prestonsburg, Kentucky office of the law firm of Boehl Stopher Graves & Deindoerfer.

Matthew L. Mooney has joined with Eugene F. Mooney and James M. Mooney '83 to form the law firm of Mooney, Mooney & Mooney in Lexington, Kentucky. The firm will engage in general trial and appellate practice.

1987

Sandra Bolin has been elected to partnership in the Richmond, Kentucky firm of Coy, Gilbert & Gilbert.

Leah R. Cooper, former law clerk to Federal District Judge Edward H. Johnstone, has opened a law office in Paducah, Kentucky. She is licensed in both Kentucky and Illinois.

Stan Cox has been appointed Assistant Attorney General in the new Environmental Prosecution Unit of the Special Prosecution Division of the Kentucky Attorney General's Office.

John L. Dotson has joined the Frankfort, Kentucky, office of the law firm of McBrayer, McGinnis, Leslie & Kirkland as an associate. He previously practiced with the Louisville, Kentucky office of Brown, Todd & Heyburn.

Keith Duerr has been elected vice-president of the Hardin County Bar Association in Elizabethtown, Kentucky.

Ashley S. Rusher has joined the law firm of House & Blanco in Winston-Salem, North Carolina as an associate in the firm's bankruptcy section. She was formerly associated with the Winston-Salem, North Carolina, law firm of Allman Spry Humphreys Leggett & Howington, and served as clerk for the Hon. Jerry G. Tart, U.S. Bankruptcy Judge for the Middle District of North Carolina.

Gregory S. Shumate is the author of the chapter on "Special Purpose Partners and Partnerships" for the UK/CLE's Practice Handbook Kentucky Partnership Law (1991).

1988

Pamela C. Bratcher has become an associate in the Bowling Green, Kentucky, firm of Cole, Broderick, Minton, Moore & Thornton.

Steve Schroering has been named Assistant Attorney General in the Special Prosecutions Division of the Kentucky Attorney General's Office.

1989

Bridget L. Dunaway has joined with Boyd F. Taylor '61 and J. Warren Keller to form the firm of Taylor, Keller & Dunaway in London, Kentucky.

R. Douglas Martin has become associated with the firm of Kincaid, Wilson, Schaeffer, Van Inwegen & Kinser, Lexington, Kentucky.

Robert L. Roark has become associated with the firm of Newberry, Hargrove and Rambicure in Lexington, Kentucky.

1990

T. Kevin Flanery has become associated with the firm of Bulleit, Kinkead, Irvin & Reinhardt in Lexington, Kentucky. He was formerly with the Louisville, Kentucky firm of Woodward, Hobson & Fulton.

In Memoriam

1924 Governor A.B. "Happy" Chandler - Versailles, Kentucky

1931 Charles Reidinger - Lewis County, Kentucky

1932 Albert M. Karnes - Paducah, Kentucky

1933 Dan E. Fowler - Lexington, Kentucky

Bert O. Howard - Harlan, Kentucky

1934 Eugene C. Royse - Maysville, Kentucky

1935 L. Marion Oliver - Berea, Kentucky

1938 Elwood Rosenbaum- Lexington, Kentucky

1939 J. R. Bush, Jr. - Lexington, Kentucky

1941 W. Howard Clay - Louisville, Kentucky

1943 William J. Dingus - McDonough, Georgia

1948 Clay M. Bishop - Manchester, Kentucky

Thomas C. Carroll - Anchorage, Kentucky

1950 Hugh K. Campbell - Crestwood, Kentucky

Everett R. Berger, Jr. - Claymont, Delaware

1951 Arloe W. Mayne - Ashland, Kentucky

1952 Anne Varble - Jeffersonville, Indiana

Joe Nagle - Middlesboro, Kentucky

1954 Judge Harris S. Howard - Prestonsburg, Kentucky

John W. Murphy, Jr. - Liberty, Kentucky

Clyde Mullins - Elkhorn City, Kentucky

1955 Charles R. Doyle - Lexington, Kentucky

1959 Wendell Cherry - Louisville, Kentucky

1979 Kathleen Beyer Dorman - Frankfort, Kentucky

Undergraduate Institutions Represented in Student Body

The College of Law for the 91-92 academic year student body contains representatives who did undergraduate work at 120 different institutions:

Abilene Christian University
University of Alabama
Alice Lloyd College
Alma College
Angelo State University
Bellarmine College
Berea College
Boston College
Boston State College
Boston University
Bowling Green State University
Bryn Mawr College
University of California at Los Angeles
California State University at Fullerton
Campbellsville College
Central Wesleyan College
Centre College
University of Chicago
University of Cincinnati
Colby College
University of Colorado
Colorado State University
Colorado State University at Catherine
Cumberland College
David Lipscomb University
Davidson College
University of Dayton
Depauw University
Drew University
Duke University
Eastern Kentucky University
Eckerd College
Emory University
Evergreen State College
University of Florida
Freed-Hardeman University
Furman University
George Washington University
Georgetown College
Georgetown University
University of Georgia
Georgia State University
Grinnell College
Hampton University
Hanover College
Haverford College
Howard University
Hunter College
University of Illinois
Illinois Wesleyan University
Indiana University
Indiana Wesleyan
James Madison University
Kalamazoo College
University of Kentucky
Kentucky Christian College
Kentucky State University
Kentucky Wesleyan College
Lincoln Memorial University
Louisiana State University
University of Louisville
Marquette University
Marshall University
University of Massachusetts at Boston
Memphis State University
University of Miami
Miami University
University of Michigan
Morehead State University
Murray State University
University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill
University of North Carolina at Greensboro
Northern Kentucky University
Northwestern University
Notre Dame University
Ohio State University
University of Pennsylvania
Pikeville College
University of Pittsburgh
Princeton University
Rio Grande College
Roger Williams College
Rutgers College of Nursing
Saint Bonaventure University
Saint Lawrence University
Sarah Lawrence College
University of the South
University of South Carolina
Southeast Missouri State University
Stanford University
State University of New York at Buffalo
Sweet Briar College
University of Tampa
University of Tennessee
University of Tennessee at Martin
University of Texas
Thomas More College
Transylvania University
Tulane University
Union College
Vanderbilt University
Vassar College
Villanova University
University of Virginia
Virginia Commonwealth University
Wabash College
Wake Forest
University of Washington
Washington and Lee
Washington University at St. Louis
Wellesley College
Western Kentucky University
University of Western Ontario
West Virginia Wesleyan College
Williams College
University of Wisconsin at Eau Claire
University of Wisconsin at Madison
Wright State University
Xavier University
Yale University

FYI

University of Kentucky College of Law Highlights

- Medium sized law school (approximately 440 students)
- Excellent student-faculty ratio of 17:1
- All professors teach and the College provides strong emphasis on good teaching
- Scholarly output of faculty rated within top 25 law schools nationally
- Cohesive student body—all are full time day students
- Active, involved alumni support
- Nationally recognized continuing legal education program with 19 years of service to students, the bar, the judiciary, and the community
- Strong placement services—on campus program, 4 national and regional job fairs, one for minority students—opportunities throughout Kentucky and the United States
- Student body 85% Kentuckian and 15% non-resident, representing approximately 120 undergraduate institutions
- Financial aid and loans through UK central Financial Aid office
- Law library one of the best in the Southeast, over 300,000 volumes with WESTLAW and LEXIS
- Highly regarded Kentucky Law Journal is the tenth oldest law journal in the nation
- Mineral Law Center and Journal of Mineral Law & Policy on cutting edge of mineral and environmental fields
- Widely respected moot court program—teams consistently finishing high in national competition
- Joint degree programs leading to JD/MBA and JD/Public Administration
- Tuition $1,330/semester for Kentucky residents and $3,850/semester for non-residents in 1991-92
- Class entering 1991 had median undergraduate GPA of 3.33 and LSAT of 38
- 96% Kentucky Bar pass rate of Class of 1991

College of Law
Office of the Dean
University of Kentucky
Lexington, KY 40506-0048